TUNNEL WILL BE DUG, SAYS AUGUST BUSCH

Adolphus Busch Wants to Be First to Bore Under Mississippi.

BRIDGE AN ALTERNATIVE

Tube Will Be 7500 Feet Long, and Will ost About $3,000,000.

WILL BATTLE MONOPOLY

Ultimate Extension of New Railroad to the Gulf Planned.

August A. Busch, who with his father, Adolphus Busch, is pushing the plans of the Manufacturers' Railway Co. for a new terminal system to compete with the Terminal Railroad Association monopoly, declared to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that the company had definitely decided to cross the Mississippi by a tunnel or a bridge, the tunnel plan being the more likely of adoption.

Mr. Busch outlined as the present objects of the Manufacturers' Railway Co., in the order of their expected accomplishment, these four undertakings:

1. To extend its present line to the city limits, a distance of 10 miles.

2. Either to bore a tunnel under the Mississippi or build a bridge across it—the tunnel preferred.

3. To extend the company's line to Springfield, Mo., that other railroads not now entering this city may establish a St. Louis connection.

4. To extend the Manufacturers' Railway to Port Arthur, Tex., to participate in the Panama business.

The tunnel, according to present plans, will be 7500 feet long, will cost $3,000,000, and will be laid from the foot of Arsenal street.

Adolphus Busch's Ambition.

Mr. Busch said:

"My father, Adolphus Busch, is ambitious to establish a record as being the first man to tunnel under the Mississippi.

"There are several reasons why a tunnel is desired. It will cost less to construct and maintain than a bridge, and it will never wear out.

"One thing is certain. The Manufacturers' Railway will construct either a tunnel or a bridge. We expect opposition in some quarters. In fact, it has already come, as shown by the injunction proceedings instituted by the Terminal Association.

"But that many manufacturers of St. Louis are interested in our project is evidenced by the fact that there have already been several applications for sites along the line of the proposed extension.

"A tunnel to the Illinois side would give an opportunity for all railroads not in the combine to enter St. Louis without being compelled to use either Merchants' or Eads' Bridge, and would thus become an effective rival of the Terminal combine.

Will Never Be Monopoly.

"The Manufacturers' Railway will never at any time become a member of any combine. Neither is it intended as a monopoly. Blocks of stock will be placed on the market and any citizen of St. Louis will be free to purchase them.

"As soon as Mr. Flad recovers from his present illness, he and Julius Pitzman will go to work to take soundings for the proposed tunnel from the foot of Arsenal street to the bluffs a little to the south on the Illinois side. This work will require a month or six weeks."

At Jefferson City, where he went to file with the Secretary of State the resolution providing for the extension of the Manufacturers' lines, Mr. Busch Thursday told of the company's plan to purchase the old Arsenal site in South St. Louis.

A bill to be presented in Congress by Congressman Bartholdt will ask for permission to purchase the Arsenal property. This strip of land, 750 feet long by 250 feet wide, is considered absolutely necessary to the plans of the concern.

Mile of River Front.

Recent purchases by the company included two large manufacturing plants, which will be wrecked to provide yard space for the railroad. They are the St. Louis Woodenware Works, Main and St. George streets, and the Larkin & Scheffer Chemical Works on St. George street near Main. When the Arsenal property is acquired the company will own or control a strip of land along the river front more than a mile long and 200 feet wide.

Mr. Busch said at Jefferson City that the price of the property in the neighborhood of the route has increased. Land that could have been bought three weeks ago for $1500 has now doubled in price, he said.

The new road will not interfere with desirable residence property, Mr. Busch said. It is intended to afford the manufacturers of South St. Louis ready inlet and outlet for crude materials and finished products. Several manufacturing concerns are said to be making efforts to secure sites near the proposed line.

There will be no grade crossing, Mr. Busch says, except at Broadway, where he considers it unavoidable. The present line has a grade crossing at this point, and he says no accident has ever occurred there, the most complete precautions being prefided.

COLDER AFTER RAIN SATURDAY

Shower to Be Followed by Sudden Drop.

Spring and winter will play engagements in St. Louis in the next 36 hours, beginning with a shower Friday afternoon.

The forecast: Showers and warmer, with minimum temperature of 48 degrees Saturday afternoon and night, brisk southerly winds.

The storm which was central over Ontario has moved to the Canadian maratime provinces within the last 24 hours, and has caused rain or snow at points in the Lake Region, New England and the middle Atlantic States. Another storm is central over Wyoming, and is causing general cloudiness west of the Mississippi Valley as far as the Pacific Coast, and general rains and snow west of the Rocky Mountins. There is heavy rainfall in California.

Colder weather prevails east of the Mississippi, and changes to colder are in progress in the Northwest and on the Pacific Coast. In other sections the weather is warmer.

ELEVATED TRAIN FALLS TO STREET

One Passenger Is Killed and Dozen Injured in Brooklyn, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—One person was killed and a dozen injured when a car on the elevated railroad in Brooklyn fell to the street today. The car was crowded with passengers. The accident occurred at a curve on the Lexington avenue line of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co., at Fulton and Chestnut streets.

The train, which consisted of three cars, jumped the track at a switch and the first two cars remained on the elevated structure while the rear car fell into the street.

SUE FOR ELEVATOR FUNDS

Echo of McReynolds' Suspension in Chicago.

There was an echo of the suspension of McReynolds & Co., grain dealers and elevator owners, in Justice Spaulding's Court Friday when an attachment suit against the company was filed by Ballard & Messmore of St. Louis, members of the Merchants' Exchange, to recover $418.13. The proceedings are intended to act as a garnishment of certain funds in the possession of B. H. Lang & Co. and the P. P. Williams Grain Co., both of St. Louis. The attachment is returnable Feb. 1.

Press dispatches from Chicago say that application was made Friday in the United States District Court there for a receiver for the property of George S. McReynolds.

The application which is for the personal property of McReynolds only, was made in an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed by three of the creditors of McReynolds, whose claims aggregate over $1600. The petition alleges that McReynolds committed an act in bankruptcy by transferring his property to the firm of Pringle, Fitch & Rankin. The court took the matter under advisement.

COURT ALLOWS PICKETS

But They Must Use Only Peaceful Persuasion.

Judge Taylor of Circuit Court issued an interpretation Friday of the injunction granted by him Dec. 29 against the printing unions of St. Louis restraining them from interfering with the Greeley Printery.' He makes the provisions of the injunction more definite and clear.

He states that peaceful persuasion may be used, but not intimidation or violence. Picketing may be done, but not in the immediate vicinity of the printery. Money may be given to printers to leave town if they have resigned or been discharged, but not as a bribe to quit employment or not accept it.

Live Wires in Tangle.

The breaking of a guypole at Grand avenue and Henrietta street about noon Friday created havoc among the wires and excitement in the neighborhood. The guy wires were thrown on the trolley and electric light wires, causing short circuits. Some of the wires were burned through and the ends dropped down. There was a brilliant electrical display. Some telephone linemen at work on a pole scampered down and jumped into their wagon and so frightened the horse that it ran away for a short distance. Drivers of other teams jumped out of their wagons and ran away. Street cars were delayed half an hour. Nobody was hurt.

Struck Woman, Fined $25.

When Miss Gussie Rich of 932 North Fourteenth street called on Charles Clemage of 1218 North Eighth street to solicit a subscription to the Russian Relief Fund, Clemage had just arisen and was in no mood to feel charitable. After an exchange of uncomplimentary words, Miss Rich asserts, Clemage struck her on the nose, sadly marring the appearance of that organ. She caused his arrest by Patrolman Harrington. Judge Pollard of Dayton Street Police Court adjudicated the difficulty by fining Clemage $25. He paid.

LEWIS FINANCE FRENZIED, SAYS HADLEY IN SUIT

Attorney-General's Speech on Bank Causes Supreme Court Sensation.

COMPARED TO INSURANCE

Get-Rich-Quick Concerns Alluded to in Pungent Description.

DECISION IS DEFERRED

Question of Receivership Is Now Up for Final Settlement.

Attorney-General Hadley, arguing before the Supreme Court at Jefferson City today in the case of the State against the E. G. Lewis' People's United States Bank, which is contesting the order of Judge McElhinney of Clayton establishing a receivership, made a speech, attacking E. G. Lewis, which caused a sensation in the courtroom and reminded his hearers of the scene in the New York City Supreme Court last week, of which they had read, when lawyers and audience broke into cheers at Hadley's plea against the Standard Oil Co.

He described the bank as "a cross between an undertaking in frenzied finance and a get-rich-quick concern."

After condemning Lewis' method of gaining absolute control of the bank by obtaining irrevocable proxies covering 90 per cent of the stock, he ridiculed Lewis' methods of finance.

"Mr. Lewis must at some time have been in the life insurance business," declared the Attorney-General, causing an outburst of laughter which the Marshal had to rap vigorously to check. "Or," he added, "he must have studied with great care the methods pursued by the officers of such companies."

Bank Got But Half.

He called the attention of the court to the fact that the bank was organized in November, 1904, with an authorized capital of $1,000,000, and that although at that time Lewis had secured from the prospective stockholders subscriptions to the capital stock to more than $1,184,000, only $500,000 of this amount was turned over to the bank, and that of the $500,000 that was turned over by Mr. Lewis to the bank he had, for himself and enterprises controlled by him, borrowed $429,000 by March 15 last.

March 17 last, the Attorney-General stated, the capital stock of the bank was increased to $2,000,000, and although at that time Lewis had received money to pay up the entire capital stock, $291,000 was represented by unsecured notes, signed by E. G. Lewis.

April 3 last, he said, when the examination of the bank was first begun by the Secretary of State, the loans to the Lewis Publishing Co. and the University Heights Development Co., enterprises owned and controlled by Lewis, amounted to $145,000.

Within a few days after May 19, when the examination by the Secretary of State was concluded, Mr. Hadley said, the loans to these two companies were increased from $145,000 to $844,000, making an increase in the indebtedness of these two companies to the bank of over $700,000 in less than 60 days. He said that at the time the application for a receiver was made, Lewis had borrowed for himself and for enterprises controlled by him nearly $1,000,000 of the capital stock of the bank.

Judge Barclay, in his argument for Lewis gave less attention to the details of the organization of the bank until after the board of directors was changed on demand of the Secretary of State. He commented on the ruling of Judge Smith McPherson of United States District Court adverse to the bank, criticising Judge McPherson by inference for not following an opinion by Judge Amidon. He did not mention Judge Van Devanter's ruling, which was the same as that of Judge McPherson.

The arguments before the Supreme Court were closed, but an opinion is not expected for several weeks.

FEDERAL COURT TAKES CHARGE OF SALMON BANK

Historic Clinton Institution's Assets to Be Administered by Federal Receiver.

UNDER BANKRUPTCY LAW

Ruling Made by Judge Pollock in United States Court at Kansas City.

SAY[illegible]S BANKRUPT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 19.—Judge Pollock, in the Federal Court today, decided that Dr. George Y. Salmon and Maj. Harvey W. Salmon, as individuals, and also as partners under the name of Salmon & Salmon, bankers, of Clinton, Mo., were bankrupts, and an order was entered accordingly. Under this order the entire administration of the affairs of the defunct bank will be taken out of the State courts and out of the hands of John B. Egger, receiver, and will be transferred to the Federal Court.

T. T. Crittenden, referee in bankruptcy, will fix a day for a meeting of creditors in Clinton, Mo., probably within 10 days, and at the meeting the creditors will elect one or three trustees in bankruptcy, who will take charge of the estate for the benefit of all creditors.

The creditors who opposed the bankruptcy proceedings have 10 days in which to take an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. In case of appeal the matter may be advanced on the docket and speedily disposed of.

If an appeal is taken Egger may remain in charge until a final disposal of the case. It may be that the Federal Court will be asked to appoint Egger receiver under the bankruptcy law and thus avoid complications. This is being talked of.

Ends Henry County Suits.

The effect of Judge Pollock's decision today will be to end about 30 lawsuits now pending in the Circuit Court of Henry County, Mo., wherein creditors are asserting preferred claims for $75,000 against the assets of the bank.

The suits will have to be dismissed and the claims filed in the Federal Court.

Under the bankruptcy law the Salmons will have to schedule, under oath, all of their assets of every kind, wherever situated, and everything they own, except legal exemptions, will go into the Federal Court. They may also be examined as to the nature and disposition of their property.

The trustees in bankruptcy may also sue to recover securities disposed of by the Salmons shortly before the failure to the Commonwealth Trust Co. of St. Louis and to the Kansas City State Bank.

Creditors Applied.

The bank failed June 21, 1905, owing upwards of a million dollars. June 23, Joseph W. Julian, W. E. Simison and W. H. Dixon, creditors of bank, began in the Federal Court, through their attorneys, Karnes, New & Krauthoff, the bankruptcy proceedings which were decided today. The petition was filed at 9:35 o'clock in the morning. At 11 o'clock the same morning Judge Denton, in the State Court at Clinton, appointed John B. Egger receiver under the State banking laws.

June 21, when the bank closed its doors, the Salmons, as a firm and as individuals, executed deeds conveying all their property to Robert M. Cook of the Secretary of State's office. These deeds were for the equal benefit of all creditors, and Judge Pollock in his decision today said:

"Did the act of making these conveyances in and of itself, as a matter of law, constitute an act or acts of bankruptcy? This question, I think, must be answered in the affirmative."

He decided that the bank was then insolvent, that the conveyances operated in law as a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, and that then, if the Salmons were solvent, an act of bankruptcy had still been done by the execution of these three deeds, and that these deeds, as a matter of law, hindered and delayed creditors.

The petitioners for bankruptcy, after beginning proceedings in the Federal Court, proved their claims under the State receivership, and it was claimed that because of this they could not proceed in bankruptcy. Judge Pollock decided today that they could, and that the national bankruptcy law suspended the operation of all State insolvency laws in all cases coming within its scope.

He held that the State banking law, in so far as it attempted to distribute the assets of an insolvent private banker, was suspended by the operation of national law, that the proceedings in the State Court were void.

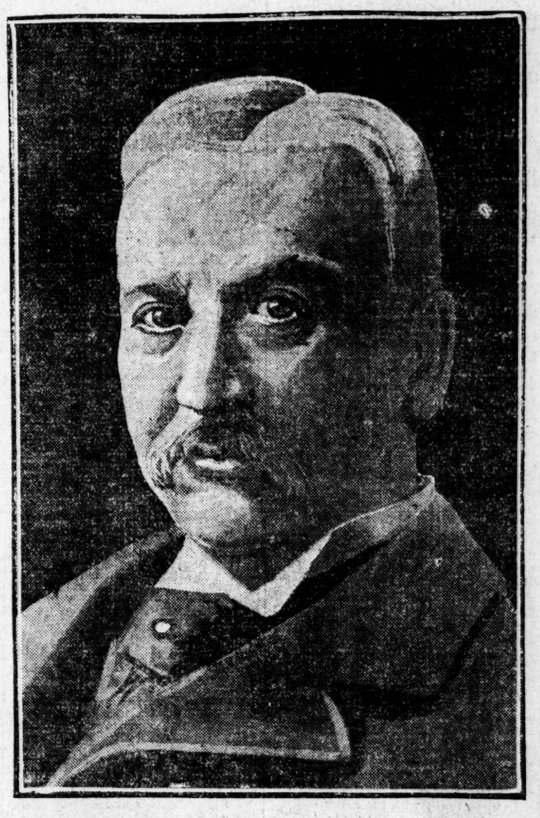

Judge Pollock held the law to be that no estoppal could be based upon a void proceeding.

TWO CLUBS ACQUITTED.

William F. Nill and John Maiers, charged with violating the Sunday closing law Jan. 14, in having sold liquor in the clubrooms of the St. Louis Schwaben Unterstutz-Verein, 1925 North Jefferson avenue, were discharged Friday in City Hall Police Court. The testimony showed that the organization in question was a legitimate benevolent and fraternal association, that its club dues amounted to between $60 and $709 per month, and that its members met but one Sunday in each month. Its charter was granted in 1882.

William Cahill, also charged with violating the Sunday closing law by selling liquor in the clubrooms of the Pilgrim Athletic and Football Association, 4152 North Newstead avenue, Dec. 23, was discharged for similar reasons, the evidence showing that the organization was a legitimate club, the headquarters of the Pilgrims, one of the best football teams in the city, and that it maintained a library and gymnasium.

TENNENT LOSSES $500,000

JOHN H. TENNENT, SR.

Total Deficit of Pioneer Shoe Company Made Known at Meeting Friday and Expert Accountants Put to Work Whose Report Will Determine Whether Legal Action Shall Be Taken.

EMPLOYES INDUCED TO BUY COMMON STOCK

Some Invested All Their Savings, Amounting to $10,000 and $20,000 Each — President's Resignation Followed Stormy Interview With Broker Hays at Tennent Home Over Concern's Report.

Following a joint committee meeting of creditors and stockholders of the Tennent Shoe Co. Friday, at which the startling revelation of a deficit of $583,630 between assets and liabilities was made, a firm of expert accountants was installed to ascertain what became of this half a million. Legal proceedings will probably depend on the findings.

A sorrowful phase of the concern's methods was discovered in the fact that old and confiding employes had been induced to subscribe $100,000 to common stock, now said to be practically worthless.

J. H. Tennent Sr., ex-president, who was forced to resign, continues at his home, 4140 Washington boulevard, declining to be seen.

ACCOUNTANTS AT WORK.

The expert accountants, Jones, Caesar & Co., began an examination of the books of the shoe company at 1 p. m.

Among the employes who subscribed to the common stock is one, according to Director J. H. Hoskins, who had subscribed for $20,000 of the common stock and had made payments to the amount of $17,000.

Another, a traveling salesman for the firm, had invested his entire savings, approximating $10,000.

The total liabilities of the firm as ascertained at this time amount to $1,023,876, including $500,000 preferred stock and $300,000 common stock. The physical assets are estimated at $437,248.

William C. Little of the brokerage firm of Little & Hays, which has disposed of nearly the entire issue of the $300,000 preferred stock of the Tennent company within the past few years, said that until the accountants had completed their task the exact financial status of the company would not be definitely known.

"The meeting today adjourned subject to the call of the chairman," said Mr. Little to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "We shall await the outcome of the work of the expert accounts. Inside of three or four days we should know just where we stand."

A large holder of the preferred stock informed a Post-Dispatch reporter that the last statement issued and signed by the president, J. H. Tennent Sr., showed that the firm was earning $85,000 a year over and above expenses. This net income had been shown on the statement for several years, the stockholder added.

About six weeks ago information reached Little & Hays to the effect that a check for $1000, bearing Mr. Tennent's signature had been rejected by a St. Louis bank. Messrs. Little & Hays thought nothing of this at the time. They supposed that the firm's account at the bank had been allowed unintentionally to run down.

STORMY INTERVIEW WITH TENNENT.

They selected J. H. Hoskins to institute an investigation. After an interview with Mr. Tennent, Mr. Hoskins reported that the firm's financial standing appeared to him to be excellent. So confident was Mr. Hoskins of this that he decided to subscribe for $50,000 of the common stock of the company.

Before investing Hoskins was advised to make an inventory of the company's assets. This he did and the result proved astonishing to him. His investigation, which was partially completed last Monday, disclosed that the company was not making $85,000, and that it was not making any money, although the totals on the books, like the statements, showed $85,000.

Mr. Hoskins in answer to a question as to the amount of the common stock fully paid, said:

"I have not checked out the common stock book at all. In fact, I would rather not go into the question until the accountants have finished their work. All I can say at this time is that the preferred stock was paid for and the proceeds resulting from the sale were paid into the treasury.

"Details of the deficit, how it originated and how the business was conducted while it did exist, are matters I cannot discuss comprehensively at this time."

When Mr. Hays was informed of this condition of affairs he at once called up Mr. Tennent over the telephone.

Mr. Tennent was at his home, 4140 Washington boulevard. In answer to a question from Mr. Hays he said that he was suffering from severe nervous prostration.

"I want you to hand in your resignation as president of the Tennent Shoe Co. immediately," Mr. Hays is reported to have said.

Mr. Tennent seemed dumbfounded. "What," he exclaimed, dramatically, "resign from this firm, which I have owned and controlled for 40 years?"

"If you don't get out voluntarily you will be forced out," retorted Mr. Hays.

Mr. Tennent declared that he would not quit without a legal fight. Mr. Hays insisted that he tender his resignation, and Mr. Tennent finally invited the broker to come to his home. This Mr. Hays did. He found Mr. Tennent seated at a desk in his library. A stormy interview ensued. Charges and counter charges of bad faith were made by Mr. Hays.

At the conclusion Mr. Tennent drew a sheet of paper before him and wrote out his resignation as president of the shoe company which he had founded in 1863 and managed ever since. This document was presented to the directors at the meeting Friday.

STOCKHOLDERS HOLD BAG.

Nelson W. McLeod, George W. Perry, L. W. Grant, Thomas J. Fagin, A. L. Abbott and T. M. Fitzgerald, representing the creditors, and Charles L. Crane, James Moore and William Little, composing the subcommittee of preferred stockholders, attended Friday's special meeting.

One of them stated to a reporter for the Post-Dispatch that up to the present time no record had been found to show that more than a small percentage of the $500,000 in capital stock of the company had been paid up.

"The affairs of the company are completely mystifying to me," said this committeeman.

"How the company could continue business so long with a $500,000 deficit is something I cannot understand.

"It is no use concealing the fact that the company's resources were misrepresented to the stockholders. If the loss had only been $223,000, as was reported Thursday, the preferred stockholders could recover.

"As matters now stand it appears that neither the preferred nor common stockholders can do more than hold the bag.

"Legal proceedings of some nature may be instituted within the next few days. Things are in such a chaotic state at this time that the stockholders are simply bewildered."

Jack Tennent "Broke."

Young "Jack" Tennent, former secretary of the company, told a Post-Dispatch reporter at his home [illegible] Maryland avenue, Friday that he is "flat broke," and, instead of living in luxury and style, as intimated by his former business associates, he has been trying vainly for two months to secure a job.

"They say I have been riding around in automobiles, giving receptions and doing other things that only persons with money can do," said he.

"I wish I did have a little money today. All I have got in the world is 25 cents, and I hardly know where the next meal is coming from."

In speech and manner the young man showed how deeply depressed he felt. He talked in a low, dispirited tone of voice. He referred bitterly to the action of the present management of the Tennent Shoe Co. in making public the exact condition of the business.

"I did overdraw my account," he re

HUSBAND ABSENT, DREW OUT $4000

Pretty Birdie Herron, Whom He Employed, Left Home Same Day.

WIFE MAKES INQUIRY

Mother of Young Woman Has Not Heard From Her.

Fernandez J. Commeenes of 1006 North Compton avenue, cigar manufacturer, is missing from his home. Miss Birdie Herron of 917 North Channing avenue, 21 years old, who was employed as a cigar roller at the factory, is also absent. Both she and Commeenes left Jan. 6, and Mrs. Commeenes has made inquiries at the Herron home as to whether they left together, and as to whether Mrs. Herron knows where her daughter is.

Mrs. Herron said Friday that her daughter said she was going to the country to visit friends. She has often done this, and Mrs. Herron says she is not uneasy about her. She has had no word from her, however.

More than $4000, which Commeenes had accumulated in his cigar business, was drawn from a bank the afternoon he departed from home. His wife has heard nothing from him.

Of the ten girls who helped make Le Flor de Commeenes cigars Birdie Herron was the prettiest. She is an Irish type—coal black hair, blue eyes and milky complexion.

Girl Has His Picture.

AfterMr. Commeenes' departure it was found that a picture of the cigar manufacturer was pasted on the table at which the girl worked, under a calendar which could be lifted so as to reveal it. Mrs. Commeenes had this table thrown into a rear shed.

"I guess they planned everything," Mrs. Commeenes said Friday to a Post-Dispatch reporter. She refused to make any statement beyond this and the fact that she has no information regarding her husband's whereabouts.

When Mrs. Commeenes returned the afternoon of Jan. 6 from a visit to Peoria, Ill., she found her husband was not at home. At 9 o'clock that evening she received a telephone message, in a voice recognized as his, saying he would be home early the following morning. He did not say where he was when he was talking. Mrs. Commeenes has heard nothing from him since then.

Fernandez J. Commeenes was born in Madrid, Spain, 40 years ago. He came to St. Louis 13 years ago, and two years later married. The cigar business he established prospered, and had an output of 25,000 a month.

Passenger Snatched Bareheaded

Straphangers' Union No. 2 will probably be asked to take up the case of Oscar Sauerberger of 2019 Cherokee street, who complained at Four Courts that the conductor on Olive street car No. 353 appropriated his hat at Eighteenth and Olive streets. Sauerberger said he entered the car at Twelfth and Olive streets, ready and able to pay his fare. The fare was not asked for by the conductor until Sauerberger was about to leave at Eighteenth street. Not waiting to pay, he dropped off the car. While he was doing so the conductor seized his skypiece, giving the motorman two bells to proceed, and bore it away.

TESTIFIES AGAINST HER JILTED FIANCE

Miss Mattie Douthitt Recounts Incidents of Olive Street Shooting.

TELLS OF HIS THREAT

Declares He Told Her How to Meet Him if She Valued Her Life.

In Judge Reynolds' division of Criminal Court Friday the trial of E. B. Morris, railroad conductor, charged with assault to kill his former fiancee, Miss Mattie Douthitt, was begun.

Morris created great excitement during the noon hour Nov. 29 by firing three shots at Miss Douthitt at Ninth and Olive streets in the presence of a great crowd.

His defense at the time was that he was delirious from typhoid fever.

Miss Douthitt's sister, Cora, and her half-brother, C. D. Freeman, were with her when the shots were fired.

Morris was in court Friday, minus the full beard which he wore at the time of the shooting.

Miss Mattie Douthitt, the prosecuting witness, took the stand after a long delay in impanelling a jury.

"I have known Morris two years," she said. "We were at one time engaged to be married. On the evening of Nov. 28 I received a telephone message from him. He said, 'If you want to live until tomorrow night you had better meet at the Century Building at noon tomorrow.'

"I told my sister and brother about it and it was thought best for me to keep the appointment, but they were to be near at hand to see that I was not injured. When I arrived at the Century Building I found my sister talking to Morris. He said he wanted me to take a walk with him, so we could talk privately. 'This is no bluff,' he said. 'This thing has got to be fixed up.'

"We all went across the street and my half-brother, Mr. Freeman, met us there. My brother shook hands with Morris and said, in a friendly way: 'Morris, why don't you quit following my sister?' Then Morris pulled his revolver and fired at me twice and shot at my brother twice. The crowd followed him down Ninth street and he was arrested."

On cross examination Attorney William H. Fish, counsel for Morris, asked Miss Douthitt:

"Is it not true that you have lived in many different places in St. Louis?"

"It is," said Miss Douthitt, "but I have been living at 2130 Sheridan avenue a good while."

"Is it not true that you once kept company with Robert Dameron, a married man?"

"Yes," said Miss Douthitt, "but I didn't know he was married until his wife came to me and asked me to give him up.

"I believed that I was engaged to Mr. Dameron," she added.

While Miss Douthitt was testifying the big black Jail cat walked across the courtroom, stopped in front of Morris and looked at him and then stalked out.

"That is good luck for my client," said Attorney Fish.

"Not much," said Prosecutor Gillespie. "The last time that cat came in here he looked at Eddie Kelleher like that and Kelleher got 25 years."

Miss Cora Douthitt testified as to the meeting with Morris and the subsequent shooting, her account being the same as that of her sister.

WRIGHT GOES TO JAPAN AS AMBASSADOR

Roosevelt Appoints Philippine Governor-General to Important Post.

RANK RECENTLY RAISED

Last Representative at Mikado's Court Ranked as Minister.

CAUSE OF TAFT'S TRIP

Filipinos Were Dissatisfied With His Regime and the Change Was Predicted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Luke E. Wright, Governor-General of the Philippines, has been named by the President as the first American Ambassador to Japan.

Imminence of an absolute breakdown in the civic government in the Philippines was what took Secretary Taft to the insular possessions last summer. Gov. Wright has not been able to get along with the elements of the natives that would enable him to administer the affairs of the islands in a satisfactory manner.

One of the worst results of the Governor's course was a refusal of the native property owners to pay taxes laid by the new rulers of the country. Before the Americans came there were no such things as land and internal revenue taxes. When they were imposed Gov. Taft was able to "jolly" leading natives into paying them, although it went much against the grain.

The Wright way has been entirely different. The Wright way has been to point to laws made by the legislative body and suggest to the balky native that he could read or hire someone who could, and that his business was to do what was commanded in the statutes. That way of governing was not successful.

Fought Bryan in 1896.

Wright first attracted attention in political circles in 1896, when he fought the Bryan movement with his own purity in Tennessee, with such fervor that he was called to McKinley's notice. Mr. McKinley made his acquaintance, became warmly attached to him, and finally appointed him to the Philippine Commission.

He acted as Governor-General of the Philippines while Mr. Taft, then Governor of the islands, was spending several months in the United States. President Roosevelt made him Governor-General when Taft retired to enter the Cabinet as Secretary of War.

No Trace Yet of Franklin and Daly Who Broke From Deputy Sheriff.

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

CARTHAGE, Mo., Jan. 19.—Authorities here believe that there was a well-laid plot to aid in the escape of John Franklin and Teddy Daly, long-term convicts who got away Wednesday night while they were being placed in Jail here for safe-keeping, after testifying at the murder trial of Estel Butler at Joplin.

The posses sent out by the Anti-Horse-Thief Association have as yet found no trace of them, but the hunt is being kept up.

Witnesses of the escape say that Daly did not run far after he and Franklin broke away from Deputy Sheriff Marquiss at the Jail door.

When he found that he was not being followed, they say, he leisurely walked over to a clump of trees in the Jail yard and stood there watching Marquiss when he entered the Jail.

Mrs. Butler, mother of Estel Butler, against whom the men testified, was near the Jail when the men escaped.

Three Shots Fired.

Lulu Foster, a Jail inmate and a friend of Butler, says Deputy Sheriff Marquiss ran around the corner of the building when the men broke from him and fired three shots, after which he returned to the Jail.

Butler has made a lengthy statement regarding his connection with the murder of Policeman Claude Brice in Joplin, Dec. 31, 1904. He says that Brice was not killed while a robbery was being committed. His death, Butler says, was the result of police persecution of Daly by Brice and of jealousy over a woman who had been supplying Daly with money, and in whose affections Daly believed he had been supplanted by Brice.

Butler says that when the shooting occurred he was a block away and was unarmed. He had been with Franklin and Daly and others until 2 a. m., and was walking down Broadway when he met Brice, who asked him what he was doing out that time of night, and searched him.

Waited for Trouble.

Not finding a weapon in Butler's pocket Brice passed on to Main street and Broadway, where Franklin and Daly and a man named Rogers were standing. He says that he stood in front of the Salvation Army headquarters and watched the group. He had heard Daly threaten to kill Brice and he expected trouble when they met.

He saw Brice approach the three men. They talked for awhile and Daly drew his revolver and fired twice, Butler says. Franklin also shot. Brice threw his hand in front of his face, discharged his revolver once and fell on his face on the pavement. Butler says that he went to the railroad yards and sat on a pile of timber until morning, when he took a train for Pittsburg, Kan.

WHITE BOY FOR WHOM NEGROES ARE FIGHTING.

GEORGIE.

WHITE BOY WANTS HIS NEGRO HOME

Calls Negress "Mamma," and Says She Was Kind to Him.

Georgie, the 6-year-old white boy for possession of whom negroes are contending, hopes that Katie Davenport, the negress who has raised him and has been to him the only mother he has ever known, will keep him.

"I want to stay with mamma," he said Friday in the East St. Louis Police Station, where he is held pending the outcome of the fight for his possession. "She has always been good to me and is the only mamma I've got."

Katie Davenport tells him she is not his mother and that he is a white child, but he says he doesn't know anything about that and attaches no importance to it. All he knows is that she has been good to him and he wants to stay with her.

Katie Davenport says she wants to find a good home for the boy with a white family or an institution for white children, but she considers that if he is to continue to live among negroes she has the best right to him.

The fight for possession of the child is between Katie Davenport and Henry Houston, with whom she lives at 1111 Linden street, on the one hand, and Hugo Koenig, 115 North A street, East St. Louis, a white man, and Mrs. Mary Jones, his negro housekeeper, who is the mother of Katie Davenport.

Boy Taken From Hospital.

Georgie was born at a hospital on O'Fallon street, Oct. 2, 1899. His mother was an 18-year-old girl, known there as Minnie, a girl of careful rearing said to belong to a wealthy Cincinnati family.

Mary Jones was employed at the hospital. She was paid a dollar to find a home for the baby. She gave it to her daughter, Katie Davenport, who lived then at 102 Carr street.

The boy has been associated exclusively with negroes all his life except last Tuesday, when he was sent to a white school in East St. Louis.

Katie Davenport says she started him to a kindergarten for negro children, but they teased him because he was white, and she kept him at home.

Last week the child was sent to East St. Louis to visit Mary Jones at the home of Koenig. He took a fancy to the boy, says he, and went to Belleville and adopted him, but there is no record of such adoption there. When Katie Davenport and Houston went after him Tuesday, Mrs. Jones refused to give him up. Katie called the boy and he ran to her. They started with him to the ferry. Koenig followed and tried to get him back. The boy kept crying, "Keep me, mamma, keep me."

They kept him and crossed the river with him. Koenig procured a warrant charging them with kidnaping the child and they were arrested and they and the child taken to East St. Louis. The case is set for 10 a. m. Saturday before Justice Brady.

Katie Davenport says that when Georgie was about a year old a baby buggy which she thinks must have cost $30 was sent to her by the midwife who had attended the mother, for the child. Some time later she was wheeling the baby in the buggy when she met the midwife, who recognized the buggy and stopped to look at the baby.

"So this is Minnie's baby," she said. "If Minnie only knew that her baby was in the hands of negroes!"

POLICE WITNESS FOUND.

With the aid of Chief of Police Hayes of Kansas City, Police Commissioner Maroney and Circuit Attorney Sager have located a witness whose testimony and papers in her possession may prove of value in the investigation of police graft in St. Louis, according to press dispatches.

The woman, Jane Burney, also known as Jane Lynch, is said to have left St. Louis a week ago with three trunks, one of which was believed to contain documents and memoranda wanted as evidence by Maroney and Sager.

On their arrival at Kansas City they located the woman at the Hotel St. Regis. Chief Hayes arranged for her detention there, and it is said that the St. Louis officials regard their trip to Kansas City as highly successful.

DOG SAVES DOG IN FIRE.

Dick, a big St. Bernard dog, gave a prompt alarm and then rescued his chum Jack, a small spaniel, when a fire broke out in the basement of John H. Huelsmann's saloon at 2100 Eugenia street Friday, threatening the building, its contents and occupants.

When Dick's barking and frantic demeanor had aroused the family and brought firemen to the saloon, Miss Laonie Huelsmann, 14 years old, daughter of the proprietor, hugged her pets, whom she feared she had lost. The big dog had dragged the smaller one from the blazing basement after the spaniel had bitten Charles Tibbets, who tried to rescue him.

The blaze damaged the contents of the cellar to the amount of $200, including the loss of a large quantity of ice that was contained in a big refrigerator.

Insurance Agents' Dinner.

The Executive Committee of the St. Louis Insurance Agents' Association will be the hosts at an informal dinner at the Mercantile Club next Tuesday evening. The stated purpose is to give the members of the association an opportunity to get better acquainted, to promote good fellowship and to listen to some after-dinner talk, but not too much

BLOCKADE IS FRENCH REPLY TO VENEZUELA

Five Warships to Patrol Coast Until Castro Makes Amends for Insult.

UNCLE SAM ACTS ALSO

Cruisers Cleveland and Olympia Stationed Within Striking Distance.

NO CONCERTED ACTION

United States to Be Neutral Unless Monroe Doctrine Is Involved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—France will blockade the Venezuelan coast because of the action of President Castro in insulting the French Charge d'Affaires, M. Taigny, but it is not believed that the French Government will resort to forcible methods to induce Castro to make amends.

There will be no action on the part of the United States in the quarrel between France and Venezuela. Assurances have already been given the United States by the French Government that the Monroe Doctrine will not be infringed, as it is not the intention of the French to attempt to seize Venezuelan territory. The United States Government will keep in close touch with the situation, and one or two of our cruisers will be in the vicinity of the Venezuelan coast for the purpose of keeping the Government informed of the developments.

Three American cruisers, the Cleveland, Olympia and Des Moines, are now at Culebra, an island near the Venezuelan coast, but one of these has been ordered to Hampton Roads. The Cleveland and Olympia have been directed to cruise in the vicinity of the Windward Islands. They are equipped with the wireless telegraph system, and will be in close touch with the Navy Department. If necessary, they can be dispatched to Venezuelan ports within a few hours.

United States Neutral.

Complete ignorance of the intentions of the French Government is professed on the part of officials of the Department of State. It was declared by them today that nothing was known here as to what would be done. It was stated that there would be no concerted action between the French and American governments. While the United States has unsettled claims against Venezuela, it is not the intention of the Department of State to press them at this time, as the question of settlement will be referred to Congress.

The French quarrel with Venezuela grows directly out of unpaid claims, but has gone beyond this question and has assumed the proportions of one nation insulting another.

The action of President Castro in refusing to permit the French representative at Caracas to board a steamship and return to his native land, and, after he had taken passage on the vessel, declining to allow him to leave it for the purpose of getting some papers from the French Legation, has added bitterness to the quarrel. In diplomatic circles it is said that France cannot afford this latest insult to pass unnoticed, and in order to maintain its self-respect must take strong measures.

Advised of Blockade Plan.

Notwithstanding the professed ignorance of the officials as to the course that France will pursue in dealing with Venezuela, they have been advised and take great interest in the stories, that three French cruisers, which are now near the Venezuelan coast, will be dispatched there at once and that two others will be sent from across the Atlantic to assist in maintaining a blockade of the coast of Venezuela.

It is not believed that other European nations having claims against Venezuela will participate in the blockade, but owing to the situation, which involves the honor of France, they will remain aloof until that question has been settled.

FRANCE TO ASK CREDIT FOR VENEZUELAN WORK.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The Venezuelan affair occupied the attention of a special meeting of the French Cabinet today. It is understood in ministerial circles, but the fact has not yet been officially given out, that Premier Rouvier has decided to demand an extraordinary credit.

This will give rise to debates in the chambers whose assent is necessary for a grant. The Government is fully determined to act with the greatest firmness, at the same time adopting a prudent attitude owing to the unstable character of the Venezuelan Government, which may change at any moment.

The authorities at Washington are being kept fully acquainted with France's attitude, and nothing will be undertaken without the absolute cognizance of the United States.

TRIED FOR SON'S DEATH.

Mother and Stepfather Accused of Seeking Property.

COLUMBUS, Kan., Jan. 19.—The jury was completed this morning and the trial of Thomas Morbett and his wife for the murder of Mrs. Morbett's 11-year-old son, Earl Ford, has begun.

In his statement of the case the Prosecuting Attorney said that he would prove that the boy was killed in order to get him out of the way so that his mother and stepfather could get hold of a farm given to the lad by his grandfather. The boy was strangled last June and then thrown into a cesspool. Mrs. Morbett's father has employed Attorney Hunt to assist in the prosecution of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morbett are about 30 years old.

"WILL PROVE PACKERS' CASE BY GARFIELD"

Attorney Miller Declares He Will Show Admission of Commissioner.

CAUSES A SENSATION

Declares Garfield Said He Would Seek Facts in Packers' Offices.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Attorney John S. Miller, speaking for the packers, continued his preliminary statement in the United States Court this morning. He created something of a sensation at the commencement of his remarks by stating that he would prove by the admission of Corporation Commissioner Garfield while on the stand that the packers in this case are entitled to immunity from prosecution.

He declared further that last March Commissioner Garfield declared that he would consider the seeking of facts by his agents, in the offices of the packers, as if they had been developed before him personally and had been presented in his presence at a formal hearing.

Commissioner Garfield, who was in the courtroom when the statements were made by the attorney, began writing rapidly on a pad of paper, taking notes of the statements made by Mr. Miller.

Mr. Miller said in opening his speech:

"A meeting was held at the Chicago Club in this city on April 13, 1903, between Commissioner Garfield, L. C. Krauthoff, and Samuel Roberts. The question arose as to the relations to exist between Commissioner Garfield and the packers if the investigation was to be in the proper line of privacy. Mr. Garfield said that the question of what the Government was, or was not entitled to, might come up and that if it arose he would settle it.

He said that he desired to conduct an investigation, but without violating any rights of privacy. Mr. Krauthoff suggested that he might advise the packers who were his clients to resist the right of the commissioner to publicly investigate a private business, but that he was disposed to ask the packers not to contest the matter. The question then arose as to the method of getting the information and how the work of the agents of the commissioner would be considered. Commissioner Garfield replied that the information would be the same as if the defendants had testified before him personally."

The attorney then contended that under the law, although packers were not sworn and it was the order of Commissioner Garfield that they should not be, the evidence of the men was no less evidence, and within the immunity law.

Attorney Miller concluded his address at noon and was followed by Attorney George W. Brown, also for the packers.

At the noon recess of the court Commissioner Garfield was asked if he would make a statement concerning the remarks of Attorney Miller and replied:

"I would rather not talk of the matter. I am a witness in this case and do not care to discuss it before I am called. I do not care to say whether I can explain this matter or not."

WOUND FATAL AFTER ARREST

Edward Asher Died on His Way to East Side Police Station.

Authorities at Venice are investigating the mysterious death of Edward Asher, who received a fatal wound after he had been arrested by Policemen Charles Braden, and died while on the way to the Jail.

Braden saw Asher acting queerly near the Madison Railway depot Thursday night, and, believing him to be drunk, arrested him. Asher broke away and ran into a saloon under the East Side Hotel, where he lived. Those who saw him then say he was not wounded.

Braden took him from the saloon. A few minutes later two shots were heard. Edward Watson, T. B. Crocker and Policeman Hogan ran from the saloon and saw Braden standing over the prostrate form of Asher.

"This man is hurt," said Braden.

Asher was placed on the front platform of a street car and hurried to the City Jail, where he died as he was being taken into the building.

He was 23 years and single and was employed at the Standard Oil barrel works. He had been in Venice only three weeks.

Braden says that he fired two shots in the air when Asher broke away from him, but denies that he inflicted the fatal wound.

Negress Discharged.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Anderson had a strenuous time Friday in keeping Mrs. Emma Beall of 1038 North Leffingwell avenue, down to the relevant facts in her evidence against Mrs. William Davis, colored, arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace. The alleged difficulty between the two was said to have taken place in the alley back of Mrs. Beall's home, and the latter insisted upon relating so many minor details having no bearing on the case that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Anderson was kept busy heading her back to the point at issue. The upshot of her testimony was a failure to produce convincing evidence of the defendant's alleged disturbance of her peace and the latter was discharged.

Fraud Sentences Upheld.

In United States Court of Appeals Friday morning, Judge Vandeventer sustained the ruling of the Kansas City Federal Court in sentencing to the Penitentiary Albert H. Brown, Joseph Rickett, Charles L. Ricker and William Marvin, who, under the firm name of Albert H. Brown & Co., were found guilty of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Their scheme was to advertise for sale a stock of merchandise. They would represent to the purchaser that the stock was incumbered and obtain from him a certified check with which to pay off the mortgage, which it was proven did not exist.

The sales of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis each day are greater than the number of St. Louis homes.

HOMELESS WIFE GIVEN DIVORCE

Declared Husband, Traveling Salesman, Insisted She Travel With Him.

Mrs. Agnes M. Bradley was granted a divorce Friday from William T. Bradley by Judge McElhinney in St. Louis County Circuit Court, and the restoration of her maiden name of Brennam.

The wife charged that her husband was a traveling salesman and refused to make a home for her, insisting that she accompany him in his business trips on the road and giving as his reason his belief that if he left her at home she would "have a good time with other men." Her petition stated that they were married Oct. 12, 1904, in Sioux City, Io., and that she left him May 6, 1905, in Kansas City, Mo., after a quarrel in a restaurant, during which he struck her and inflicted other indignities.

The quarrel, she says, was caused by her begging her husband to give her a home and not compel her to travel continually. The plaintiff lives at 1275 Plymouth avenue.

Hofmeister of 2013 Menard street many years, and when he died she had his body sent to the undertaker's establishment of M. J. Roberts. Mrs. G. Schenck of 2829 Osceola street, who said she was a sister of the dead man, called on Health Commissioner Snodgrass and asked for the body.

Dr. Snodgras ordered that the body be turned over to Mrs. Schenck and the undertaker said he would do so. It is claimed that Steuteimann left some insurance, which was left to his estate.

Sometimes Help the Hair to Go.

In any changeable climate the hair is apt to become brittle and to break off stubby here and there. This makes a hair-dressing almost a necessity, especially to ladies. In using a hair dressing why not get the best, one that combines with it the efficiency in killing the dandruff germ, the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, causing what is called falling hair, and in time baldness. Newbro's "Herpicide" is that kind of a hair dressing. You have no idea how delightful your scalp will feel, and how stylish your hair will appear, after an application or two of Herpicide. PARKER YOUNGEST FEDERAL JUDGE

Son of St. Louis Lawyer Appointed on Indian Territory Bench.

YOUTH CAUSED PROTEST

Aged 33, He Began Career Here as Commission Company Stenographer.

Luman F. Parker Jr., aged 33 years, former St. Louisan, now a citizen of Indian Territory, just appointed by President Roosevelt Federal Judge of the Northern District of Indian Territory, is the youngest man ever appointed to the Federal bench.

On account of his youth the appointment was vigorously fought, charges being preferred, one of the opponents being a former Federal judge. The President summoned Parker to Washington while the Senate judiciary committee was considering the appointment and the President said:

"I appoint you because you have the unanimous indorsement of the bar of Indian Territory and the support of the party in your district. You are young, active and aggressive. You have married a Cherokee woman and have thus manifested your interest and confidence in her people. The Department of Justice, after investigating the charges against you, has pronounced them malicious falsehoods. That investigation has simply emphasized your fitness for the office."

Began His Career Here.

While in St. Louis Thursday Judge Parker held a sort of levee in the office of his father, Luman F. Parker, general solicitor of the Frisco Railroad, and received dozens of friends. His first step into the world of practical affairs was taken here in 1889, when, after completing a commercial course in a local school, he became a stenographer in the office of a commission company. Six years later he was a student in the Law Department of Washington University, from which he was graduated with honors in 1897. His father and mother and two sisters live at 4358 Morgan street.

He has been active in Oklahoma and Indian Territory as court stenographer, member of Special Court of Land Claims, lawyer, Assistant United States District Attorney, Master in Chancery, special representative of the Indian tribes in Washington, Mayor of Vinita, editor and politician.

Judge Parker was born in Rolla, Mo., and attend the public schools there and the State University. He came to St. Louis when 16 years old to acquire a training for business.

Mrs. Parker, wife of the new Judge, was Miss Ludie Scott Hall, whose mother was a Cherokee. Her father is a banker and ranchman of Vinita.

In appearance Judge Parker is typical of his adopted home. He is of heavy, stanch build, much tanned by the sun and wind of the prairies.

marked, "but the aggregate sum will not amount to $15,000.

"But the facts are these:

"I worked at my father's place for 15 years. My salary was never large. After I married it was not sufficient to keep me in comfortable circumstances."

Tennent declined to state the amount of his salary, but at the office of the shoe company it is said it was $150 a month.

"About five or six years ago I began to make advance withdrawals on my salary," said Tennent. "That is, when I needed money I drew on the treasury for it. But for every dollar so withdrawn there was a proper accounting. I continued getting advance money from month to month. It was no secret about the office.

"I had hoped that when the business got better I would be able to draw a better salary and pay this money back. At the same time I felt that I was entitled to it; that I earned it.

"The entire amount I withdrew in that way does not, I am sure, approximate $15,000.

Two Months' Hunt for Job.

"But it is no use discussing that now. It was even reported that I had left St. Louis. I have not been absent from the city a day. Instead, I have been downtown regularly for the past two months, or since Dec. 1, when I severed my connection with the Tennent Shoe Co. as its secretary, trying to get a position."

Mr. Tennent's home is neatly, but unostentatiously furnished. All he had left he said were the household effects.

"I have dismissed the help," he said, "and I am going to do the best I can to get another start."

"Jack" Tennent and his wife have been prominent in St. Louis society. The young man was considered wealthy. Several elaborate receptions to friends have been given at his home.

MAKES WIFE TESTIFY.

Mrs. Mary Rieff of 1309 South Sixth street was fined $5 and costs by Judge Tracy in City Hall Police Court Friday for failing to appear after having been served with a subpena as a witness against her husband, who had been charged on her complaint with disturbing the peace at their home, Dec. 29.

A policeman heard Mrs. Reiff screaming and, on entering the house, was told by her that her husband had a revolver and was threatening to kill her. Failing to obey the summons to appear as a witness, Mrs. Reiff was brought into court on an attachment. After lecturing her soundly and stating that he proposed to punish wives who refused to testify against their husbands in such cases, Judge Tracy stayed the fine. The husband was fined $15 and costs on the charge of disturbing the peace.

"NEVER MIND ME;" HIS LAST MESSAGE

WROTE FAREWELL NOTE

Removed All Traces of His Identity Except Laundry Mark, "C. C. W."

The body of the man who took prussic acid at Union Station Thursday night is still unidentified at the Morgue. In a red menorandum book in his pocket was this note in ink:

"I used cyanide of potassium. It is unnecessary to make inquiries as to who I might be." The date as originally written was Jan. 17, but this had been changed to Jan. 18 with a pencil. Several pages in the front part of the book had been torn out.

The man was seen by Frank Davis, a barber, just as he was about to collapse in the washroom at Union Station. He died in an ambulance on the way to the City Hospital.

No money was found on him and his clothing did not indicate prosperity. He wore a dark brown checked sack coat, which served as an overcoat. Under this was a shorter coat of similar pattern. Both were bought at St. Louis clothing houses. His trousers were of gray worsted, with a small stripe. His shirt was of black sateen and he wore a black four-in-hand tie. His headgear was a cheap black cloth cap, and his No. 8 shoes were of calf and well worn, but recently polished.

He was 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighed about 160 pounds, and apparently was 60 years old. His hair was thick and gray, coming far down in the middle of the forehead, and his eyebrows were unusually heavy. He had small hazel eyes and wore a mustache but no beard.

Besides the memorandum book the other article found on him were a pair of steel bowed spectacles, a silver ring with a signet in the shape of a skull and crossbones, a pocket knife with a wooden handle, a well-worn leather purse and a half-pint flask, which is believed to have contained the poison.

On his underwear was the laundry mark "C. C. W."

PEABODY POISON STORIES DENIED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CANON CITY, Colo., Jan. 19.—Miss Cora Peabody, daughter of ex-Governor James H. Peabody, is as well today as she has been for several months, during which time she has not been in good health.

Mrs. Peabody was slightly indisposed yesterday. She and her husband deplore the sensational stories sent out from the city that they had been poisoned by a would-be assassin. The family physician, Dr. F. N. Carrier, stated that he had heard of the reports and vehemently declared there was absolutely not a grain of truth in them.

The family's illness is attributed to ptomaine poisoning.

OLD SORES SAP THE VITALITY AND UNDERMINE THE HEALTH

Old Sores that refuse to heal are a constant menace to health. They sap the vitality and undermine the constitution by draining the system of its very life fluids, and those afflicted with one of these ulcers grow despondent and almost desperate as one treatment after another fails. They patiently apply salves, washes, plasters, etc., but in spite of all these the sore refuses to heal and eats deeper into the surrounding flesh, destroying the tissues and growing to be a festering, inflamed and angry mass. The source of the trouble is in the blood. This vital fluid is filled with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the sore or ulcer, making it impossible for the place to heal. It will not do to depend on external applications for a cure, because they do not reach the real cause, and valuable time is lost experimenting with such treatment; the most they can do is keep the ulcer clean. Any sore that will not heal is dangerous, for the reason that it may have the deadly germs of Cancer behind it. A cure can be brought about only through a remedy that can change the quality of the blood, and this is what S. S. S. does. It goes to the very bottom of the trouble, drives out the poisons and germs with which it is filled, and purifies and builds up the entire circulation. By the use of S. S. S. the sore is supplied with new, rich blood which corrects the trouble, soon stops the discharge, and allows the place to heal naturally and permanently. S. S. S. also reinvigorates the entire system, and when the constitution has been depleted or broken down it quickly builds it up and restores perfect health. Write for our special book on sores and ulcers, and any medical advice you are in need of; no charge for either.

POWER CO. MAY END BEAUTY OF NIAGARA FALLS

If Franchise Is Held Valid, Famous Picture Will Be Effaced.

PLAN IMMENSE PLANTS

Promoters' Project Calls for Development of 9,900,000 Horsepower.

LOCATED ABOVE FALLS

Franihises Worth Millions Were Given Away by State Legislature.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 19.—A plan to grab all the available water in the Niagara River above the falls and to develop with it 9,900,000-horsepower has come to light. It is the once famous Love Model City and Power scheme, operating under a franchise granted in 1894 by the New York Legislature to the Niagara Power and Development Co., come to life again, and under auspices which are said by the promoters to insure its success.

If capital is obtained an attempt will be made to divert the greater portion, at least, of the water in the Niagara River, conduct it by a huge canal to the Niagara embankment, six miles east of Lewiston, and there develop power in enormous quantities.

The five Niagara power companies now operating have rights for about 800,000-horsepower. They are now using but 150,000, but this amount will be greatly increased in the next two years. For one thing, the New York Central will consume a large share of the output of the Ontario Power Co., as it has contracted for all the power which will be used to electrify its lines between Buffalo and Syracuse through the distributing agent of the Ontario company, on the American side, and the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Co.

Engineers say that when the five power companies now operating are using their fullest capacity there will be a little less than 20 per cent of the water going over the falls used for power purposes. A strong east wind at present reduces the flow of water over 20 per cent, and the effect, while noticeable, does not much diminish the grandeur of the falls. But if the Love scheme is carried through the American falls will be reduced to a mill stream.

Franchises Were Cheap.

From 1885 to 1895 the Legislature gave to anyone who would take the trouble to ask, rights at Niagara that were worth millions. In many cases it gave away the right to use an unlimited quantity of water. Curiously, not one of the unlimited water franchises was ever utilized.

W. T. Love, a Socialist and land promoter, induced small investors to place about $700,000 in his company. This was spent for land, land options and the starting of a canal, which was to furnish power. Love appeared to be prospering, but the hard times drove away investors and the scheme was abandoned. All that remains of it is the beginning of the canal at La Salle, above Niagara Falls, and three stone buildings at Model City, which the promoter was to make the metropolis of America.

Love has been for many months forming the "Aragain Army," which is to build the power plant under the old franchise. It is said that several thousand members have been enrolled.

Claim Perpetual Rights.

It is remembered by Niagara Falls and Buffalo people that Love is a man of such engaging ways that he collected $700,000 on the same scheme a dozen years ago, and at one time had the whole floor of an office building in Buffalo filled with stenographers, who answered letters of subscribers. None of the people who invested at that time blamed Love for the failure of the scheme. Competent lawyers are said to have declared recently that enough actual work was done at the time to perpetuate the rights granted in 1894.

Promoters conected with the scheme say that the control of the stock has passed from Love and was bought by J. E. Williams of Glastonbury, Conn. A party of Englishmen, piloted by engineers, viewed the canal last week and found that a part of the 40,000 acres on which it is proposed to build Model City is still under option of Love and his associates.

The reason for the renewed effort to interest capital in the plan is believed to be the recommendation of Gov. Higgins to the Legislature to look up the franchises granted by previous Legislatures, with a view to forfeiture. The existence of a company claiming to possess unlimited rights is a decided menace to Niagara, and it is believed that steps will be taken to declare the franchise void.

"The Virginian's" New Heroine Was Selected by Author

MISS MARY B. CONWELL.

Miss Mary Conwell Said to Be an Ideal Molly Wood.

Miss Mary B. Conwell, who will be seen at the Century next week as Molly Wood, the school teacher heroine in the Kirke La Shelle dramatization of Owen Wister's fascinating novel, "The Virginian," was personally chosen by the author to play this exacting role.

Six prominent young actresses have preceded Miss Conwell as the dainty and piquant descendant of the Puritans who went to Wyoming to teach school, but none of them came up to the requirements of the part. Last spring Mr. Wister was called into consultation by Mr. La Shelle and finally agreed to interview the score of young lady professionals who wished to undertake the part for the present season. Miss Conwell was his choice, and she was immediately taken in hand by the author and given his personal ideas as to how "Molly" should be presented on the stage. She has also been fortunate enough to have had private rehearsals given her by the late Kirke La Shelle, who is said to have declared her the ideal of this important character, both physically and temperamentally.

This is Miss Conwell's first experience in dramatic work, she being gifted with a fine soprano voice which kept her in opera companies for the last five years. Last season she was the prima donna with Lulu Glaser in "A Madcap Princess."

QUARREL OVER FUNERAL.

Albert Abing Fined $50 for Striking Wife and Child.

Albert Abing, who resides at Melrose avenue and Percy road, quarreled with his wife, Mary, about a funeral bill, and struck her. His daughter, Augusta, interfered, and he struck her. So they both swear. Then he was arrested. When his case was called Friday in Dayton Street Police Court he failed to appear. The testimony of his wife and daughter were heard and Abing was fined $50 by default.

Augusta Abing is the young woman who recently charged Mounted Patrolman Rose with having assaulted her. Rose was exonerated by the Police Board.

MAGNET TO PULL STEEL FROM BRAIN.

Machinist to Be Relieved of Residual Metal Splinter Located by X-Ray.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—A powerful magnet will be used tomorrow at a hospital here in an effort to draw a piece of steel from the brain of John Nail of Winston, N. C.

While Nail was at work in a machine shop six months ago a piece of metal penetrated his skull over the right ear. It was drawn out, but a splinter of steel remains in the brain.

Recently he arrived here and physicians with X-rays found the bit of steel. The skull was opened and there was hemorrhage. That made it impossible to proceed. Nail will be etherized tomorrow and the magnet will be applied to draw out the piece of steel.

A GOOD THING

When It Comes Along Don't Let It Get Away From You.

"I really feel that it is hardly possible to say too much in favor of Grape-Nuts as a health food," writes a Chicago woman:

"For 9 or 10 years I had suffered from indigestion and chronic constipation, caused by the continued use of coffee and rich, heavy, greasy foods. My ailments made my life so wretched that I was eager to try anything that held out a promise of help. And that is how I happened to buy a package of Grape-Nuts food last spring.

"That ended my experiments. For in Grape-Nuts I found exactly what I wanted and needed. From the day I began to use it I noticed an improvement and in a very few weeks I found my health completely restored. My digestive apparatus now works perfectly and my chronic constipation has been entirely relieved. I have gained in weight materially, and life is a very pleasant thing to me so long as I use Grape-Nuts once or twice a day. I have found by experiment that if I leave it off for a few days my health suffers.

"A physician in our town has great success in treating stomach troubles, and the secret of it is that he compels his patients to use Grape-Nuts food—it always brings back the power of digestion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

BISHOP LOSES IN $25,000 CONTEST

Court Decides Heirs Are Entitled to the Tuttle Bequest.

After litigation extending over five years, the New York Appellate Court has decided that Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle of St. Louis, head of the Episcopal Church in the United States, is not entitled to $25,000, which was willed to him by Maria P. Mount, who died in 1899, leaving an estate appraised at $1,000,000.

The will was drawn up many years before Mrs. Mount's death, while Bishop Tuttle was in charge of the Episcopal diocese of Utah. It was contended that the bequest, while made to the Bishop, was intended for the diocese.

Bishop Tuttle was sent to Missouri, and the diocese of Utah has since been divided twice, so that four bishops had claim to the $25,000. Then the Mount heirs put in a claim for the sum, asserting that the diocese of Utah had passed out of existence. The Court of Appeals has sustained the last contention. By its decision the $25,000 reverts to the Mount heirs.

CAPTURES A BRIDE.

Octa N. Crismer, Central District patrolman, considers that he made the best capture of his life at Detroit last Tuesday, but he didn't say a word about it until Friday and he protested then that he would rather not have anything said about it.

Crismer's capture is a bride. Up to Tuesday she was Miss Frieda Hoffmann of Detroit. Their marriage was the result of a World's Fair romance.

During the Fair Crismer was assigned in plain clothes to watch for pickpockets at the Fair. One day he was standing at the Lindell entrance talking with his friend, Henry Koch, keeping an eye on the crowd. A brunette young woman of striking appearance passed.

Koch recognized the young woman as his cousin and introduced Crismer.

Before she went back to Detroit Crismer had a day off and spent it in escorting Miss Hoffmann over the Fair. When she went home they corresponded. He had furloughs in May, August and November, and each time he went to Detroit. On the November trip he proposed and was accepted.

The couple will live at 2803 North Twelfth street.

TRANSPORT TO BE RUSHED TO MANILA

War Department Orders Indicate Chinese Situation Considered Grave.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 19.—Because of alleged trouble throughout China, the transport Dix, which arrived at the Puget Sound Navy Yard from Manila to undergo repairs, was ordered by the War Department to be loaded as quickly as possible, waiting only for absolutely necessary repairs, and rush out to Manila to await further emergency orders.

The big vessel will be taken out of the dock perhaps as early as Monday and dispatched to Tacoma, where she will take on 1,000,000 feet of lumber. The balance of the cargo will be made up of mules and horses, field guns and light artillery.

Prof. J. W. Rathbun, who returned Tuesday from an institute at Amoy, where he was professor of mathematics, declares Americans are in danger of being murdered in Canton and Southern China. Most of the immigrants used to come from these sections, and the feeling against America because of the exclusion law is especially bitter. Rathbun declares that unless something is done at once to alleviate the feeling, no American will be safe in the Southern part of China.

In a letter brimful of thankfulness for her remarkable cure, Mrs. Walker writes: "I was taken ill last January with a bad diarrhoea and terrible pains through the bowels. I was treated by three different doctors, but they were unable to aid me. My husband finally advised me to try Warner's Safe Cure, so I bought a bottle. When I had used about half of it my pains ceased and I began to feel better. I have steadily continued to improve and can now walk to town and back, a distance of over a mile and a half. I firmly believe that I am permanently cured of Bright's disease."—Mrs. FLORA WALKER, Griswold St., Ashtabula, Ohio.

WAR HEROES CHEER CASTO, WHO SAVED 55 LIVES AT SEA

Intrepid Captain of the Alberta Banqueted by Army and Navy Celebrities—"Don't Forget My Crew," He Pleads, When Diamond Medal Is Pinned on Coat.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Through seas of splendor and luxury and wit, which it must have been as hard for him to navigate as the Atlantic in a gale, Capt. Mark Casto, the commander of the little fishing schooner Alberta, steered a course last night at the Clover Club's banquet in the Bellevue-Stratford. He was there in a plain black suit—contrasting oddly with the white-fronted elegance of the club's wealthy and famous members and guests. He was almost lost between two giants—he is only 5 feet 2—for he sat between Col. Alexander McClure and Gen. Nelson Miles.

But the memory of his heroism last Sunday, when he rescued 55 passengers and members of the crew from the stranded Cherokee at Atlantic City and more especially something he said when he was thanking the club for a beautiful diamond-studded medal, made him the biggest and most striking man in the place.

"Don't forget my crew," he said. Like Admiral Schley, he believes that "there's glory enough for all." His diminutive figure became impressive as he commanded his hearers: "I want you all to remember them."

Hero Wildly Cheered.

The 300 guests at the dinner—admirals, generals and men famous in all walks of business and professional life—cheered themselves hoarse at the gallant sentiment. They started an impromptu movement to remember the crew in a substantial way. Hands went down into pockets and before a quickly appointed treasurer had got all the way around the room he had a roll of nearly $400 to be divided among the six other brave sailors of the Alberta.

As a Clover Club dinner the affair was a splendid success. But the affair was more genuinely, humanly interesting than any in its memory, for the members and their guests threw all their earnestness and sincerity into making the humble little Captain know how they appreciated his worth. And he responded nobly.

The presentation came early in the evening. A. S. L. Shields, the custodian, handed the gift to Gen. Miles to pin on Casto's coat.

"Highest Type of Courage."

Capt. Casto's exhibition of heroism, Col. McLure said in making the presentation address, was of the highest possible type, "higher than the soldiers of Leonidas and the latter day figures of the Confederate leader, Pickett, at Bloody Angle, for they merely did what they were engaged to do—fight and chance death. Casto and his men faced death, not to kill others, but to save them, and entirely from choice."

The hero was a bit confused, but he faced the task bravely amid calls of "Speech, Casto, speech!" coming from all sides. He said:

"I hardly deserved all that. I think they went a little too far. I don't hardly think I'm worthy. Now, I have a crew—they're all every bit as brave as I am. They'd lay down their lives any time anybody was in danger. They don't care how the weather is running—don't care if it's a hurricane. Now, I want you all to remember them."

Tribute to His Wife.

During Casto's speech it was noticed that his eyes wandered often to the gallery surrounding the room. There sat a young and pretty woman in dark blue dress, furs and a red hat.

"Gentlemen—the wife of Capt. Casto," shouted a member. Again the diners rose and waved their handkerchiefs, and while Mrs. Casto—the Alberta for whom the schooner is named—blushed and made a pretty little bow, they gave her three rousing cheers.

It was noticed, and favorably commented on, that Capt. Casto had his wineglasses turned down and stuck to plain water all the way through the dinner.

Infernal Machine on Court Line Track Causes Death of the Watchman and Sons.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1906, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

VIENNA, Jan. 19.—Still another infernal machine to kill the Czar has been discovered, according to a telegram just received here from St. Petersburg.

At the railway junction on the line for court trains between Tsarkoe-Selo, where the Czar now is, and Gatschina, where he may go any day, a watchman found between the rails a heavy box which had been wrapped in a white table cloth so that it might not be noticed in the snow. This box the watchman carried to his home near by, where he started to examine it by the light of a candle. A frightful explosion followed.

The watchman and his three sons were killed and the house was wrecked and set on fire.

A subsequent examination of the premises showed that the infernal machine had been made powerful enough to blow and destroy any train that might strike it.

SECOND PERJURER GETS TWO YEARS

Michael Morrissey Will Join Another Kelleher Murder Witness in Prison.

When the little envelope which the foreman of a jury handed to Deputy Sheriff Berger in Judge Reynolds' division of the Circuit Court at 6 p. m. Thursday was opened Friday mroning, its contents condemned Michael Morrissey to two years in the Penitentiary. The jury had found him guilty of the charge of perjury in his testimony before the grand jury when that body was investigating the killing of "St. Louis" Tommy Sullivan, the pugilist, by Eddie Kelleher in Michael Walsh's saloon, Twenty-second and Pine streets, on the night of Jan. 29, 1905.

Kelleher himself is now out on bond, having appealed from the verdict of a jury which found him guilty of the murder of Sullivan and fixed his punishment at 25 years in the Penitentiary. "Buck" Taylor, another witness in the case, was found guilty of perjury several weeks ago and sentenced to a seven years' term. Assistant Circuit Attorney Gillespie and Fickeissen prosecuted both men.

GIRL ROUTS PURSE THIEF.

Her Fists and Screams Cause Negro to Flee.

Screaming at the top of her voice and using her fists, Miss Tillie Kaiser, employed at 4251 Delmar boulevard, routed a negro purse snatcher who attacked her at Pendleton avenue and Morgan street.

Miss Kaiser was on her way home when the negro sprang from an alley and seized her about the neck. She defended herself so valiantly that the man became frightened and fled. Miss Kaiser continued homeward and later reported the incident to the police.

CONVICT WHIPPED BY GOV. VARDAMAN

Executive Will Have to Explain Negro's Chastisement to Legislators.

SAYS HE'D DO IT AGAIN

Admits He Knocked "Impudent Boy Down, Then Used Broomstick."

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 19.—The Legislative Committee which is investigating affairs at the State Prison, will require Gov. Vardaman to explain why he whipped a young negro convict who was assigned to duty at the executive mansion in direct violation of the Mississippi statutes. According to Gov. Vardaman's own statement he knocked the negro down and then broke a broomstick over his body.

The trusty was shining the Governor's shoes and, according to Vardaman, made an impudent reply to a question from the Executive. The chastisement followed. Gov. Vardaman declares that he would whip the negro again under similar provocation.

The boy was not seriously injured during the encounter, although his body was doubtless stiff and sore for several days, as the Governor is a man of stalwart physique and strong muscles, while the negro is much below medium height.

Victim Is in Hospital.

He is now confined in the prison hospital at Oakley under treatment for rheumatism, having been sent to that place several days ago under orders from the Prison Board of Control.

The members of the latter body were all fully aware of the whipping incident, but took no action in the matter in view of the urgent recommendation in the Governor's biennial message for a rigid investigation of prison affairs.

Under the Mississippi statutes the Governor has no right to use convict labor around the Executive Mansion. Prisoners have been employed for this purpose, however, for several years.

DRIVEN OUT WITH BABE.

Mrs. Niedrau Says Husband Told Her to Go.

Charging, among other indignities, that on Thanksgiving Day, 1904, her husband packed their baby's clothes and hers and told her to go and take the little one with her, Mrs. Ida Niedrau has filed suit for divorce from Jacob Niederau. The couple were married July 27, 1892, and separated Nov. 27, 1904.

NO BEE IN HADLEY'S HAT.

Says He Will Not Run for the Governorship.

Attorney-General Hadley, in a letter to W. H. Nelson, president of a club at Kingsville, Mo., organized to support Mr. Hadley for Governor in 1908, has declared that he will not seek the office.

In the letter, which has been made public at Jefferson City, Mr. Hadley says his ambition is professional and not political. He also writes:

"In view of this statement, which I ask you to accept as final, the continuation of your organization for the purpose stated would only be a source of embarrassment to me."

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. Address

Men's Clothing an Issue in the "Cleanup" Sale

ONE of the main attractions in the "Cleanup" Sale is the extreme low prices which we are quoting for Men's "Good Clothes." We have two good reasons for making these prices, and making Men's Clothing a paramount issue in this sale.

Firstly, we do not intend to carry an Overcoat or Suit over into next season, and, secondly, when alterations are completed in our new additions, the Clothing Department will undergo a great change; therefore we are offering our great stock of high-grade Clothing at a tremendous sacrifice. For instance:

GO TO CHURCH? IF NOT, WHY NOT?

Dr. Bitting of Second Baptist Wants to Know Your Reasons.

WRITE THEM ON A CARD

Replies Will Be Made to All Taken Up in Church Sunday.

If you have gotten out of the church-going habit, and especially if it is your belief that you are justified in having done so, the Rev. Dr. Bitting, the new pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Locust and Beaumont streets, would be glad to know your reasons in the premises.

He makes occasion for their distinct formulation.

At his church next Sunday cards will be distributed, on which persons will be asked to write their difficulties in explanation of their remaining away from church as a general thing. You will not be required to sign the card containing your response to this invitation. All that the pastor of the Second Baptist Church requests is that you deal honestly with him. He wants to know why you don't go to church.

This method of ascertaining, Dr. Bitting says, has been suggested by conversations with earnest persons, both church members and those who are not. Among the reasons which have been volunteered in these conversations are that the churches are not doing anything to help political and industrial conditions, that there are so many hypocrites in the churches, that the Bible is an outgrown book, that religious thought is not co-ordinated with modern educational methods and with present intellectual life, and that the preachers are afraid to think.

The cards distributed to the congregation attending services at the Second Baptist Church next Sunday will be collected and turned over to Dr. Bitting before the services close. The pastor will classify the statements found on the cards and make them the basis of a series of Sunday evening sermons from a modern standpoint.

He wants to get at the truth, believing that the first step in remedying an evil is to learn the full and frank truth concerning its cause.

WHAT DO YOU CARE?
YOU'VE GOT YOUR HEALTH.

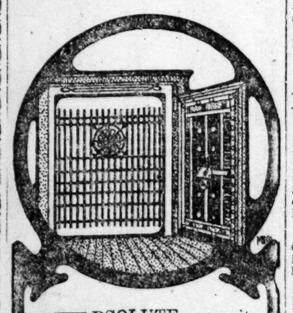

Great Natures Do Not Despair at Disappointment — They Look for Something Else to Do.

The broad-gauged man of today does not get blue just because things don't always come his way unless there is something the matter with him. If he "falls down" on one proposition he immediately starts to look up another. He always looks forward and keeps on hustling. A man with his health and faculties has plenty of opportunities and the man who gives up or even feels like it has either a small nature or some physical weakness.

Dyspepsia certainly puts the best of men out of condition for work of any kind. You cannot blame the dyspeptic for getting blue. The very nature of his disease is most depressing and calculated to deprive him of ambition, energy and hope. There is hope for him, however, certain and sure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are recognized throughout the length and breadth of the land as the one cure that's safe and sure. Their unbounded popularity — resulting from the thousands and thousands of cures they have effected, prove beyond the shadow of a doubt their greatness as a cure. Wherein lies their greatness? In the very fact that they are Nature's own simple remedy. They do the exact work in exactly the same way that the digestive fluids of the stomach do because they are composed of exactly the same elements and possess the same properties. They relieve the weak and worn-out stomach of its burden of digestion and permit it without let or hindrance to rest and grow sound and well. The stomach will get well quick enough in its own natural way if it is let alone. That is what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do. They not only let it alone themselves but make the food taken into the stomach do the same.

You can satisfy yourself of the truth of this statement by putting the food you would eat into a glass jar with sufficient water and one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The process of digestion will be taken up and carried out just as the gastric juice and other digestive fluids would do it. Their action is natural and they cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. In fact you forget you have a stomach when they begin to do their work, so mild and natural is the operation. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50c a box.

ABSOLUTE security against burglars, highwaymen, fire and every chance of loss is afforded those renting Safe Deposit Boxes in our Massive Vaults. Your choice of three different sizes of boxes for $5.00 a year.

FIVE ATTACKS ON WOMEN ONE NIGHT'S RECORD

Chicago Epidemic of Crimes Against Women Assumes Alarming Proportions.

RUFFIAN FIGURES TWICE

Knocked Mrs. Day and Miss Amant Down in Same Residence Section.

ONE TRAGEDY DEVELOPS

Youth Declares Mrs. Hollister Was Held Prisoner for Hours by Five Thugs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Five women were attacked and injured here by men, continuing the carnival of crime of the stronger sex against the weaker which began with the murder of Mrs. Gentry, has grown so alarming as to cause a demand for an increase in the police force which will be brought about at once.

Mrs. Emma Day and Miss Pauline Amant, 19 years old, were attacked between 9 and 10 o'clock in a thickly settled, well-lighted, high-class residence district. Mrs. Day was choked and beaten, and is in a serious condition. Miss Amant escaped from her assailant, who is believed to have been the same man who attacked Mrs. Day.

Circumstances attending the attacks on the two women, who suffered within a short period of time on the same night, indicate that their assailant was not acting with robbery as his motive. No record was made of the cases on the books of the Police Department. Attempts were made to prevent knowledge of the crimes becoming public. For a time the police even denied ever having heard of the cases.

Scared Off by Screams.

Mrs. Day was beaten and kicked. Further indignities were prevented by the arrival of several persons who had heard the woman scream. Her assailant fled. The attack took place in the shadow of a wall of St. Patrick's Academy and Convent.

The woman made a valiant defense, but was soon overpowered and fell. Her purse was flung half a dozen feet away, but the man made no effort to get it. Instead, he continued striking the woman and trying to choke her. When Mrs. Day fell the man struck her head repeatedly upon the stone pavement. The attack was within a few doors of Mrs. Day's home. Among the first to arrive was Mrs. Day's mother, who found her daughter unconscious. Internal injuries are feared.

Florence Hunter, 26 years old, was attacked in her home by Leonard Ransom, a neighbor, and perhaps fatally wounded by a revolver bullet. Ransom fled and the woman was taken to the County Hospital. She has not yet been able to make any statement.

Jennie Rannenberg was attacked by John Ryan, a cabdriver, who crushed her skull with a hammer and kicked her terribly. He has not been arrested.

Miss Annie Bystrom was attacked on State street, in the midst of thousands of shoppers, but escaped serious injury.

Held Prisoner for Hours.

Mrs. Frank G. Hollister, whose brutal murder by Richard Ivens has aroused Chicago, was held a prisoner in an empty house in Montana street for hours before she was killed, by a gang of five young hoodlums, of which her slayer was one, according to a story which has just been told the police.

The story was told to a friend by one of the degenerate youths, while in his cups, who had taken part in the attack upon the woman.

This youth gave the names of four of Mrs. Hollister's assailants, and said she was lured into their clutches by an appeal to her charity.

She was conducted to where the quartet lay in ambush. As she entered the house she was seized and gagged. After she had been kept there several hours, Ivens, it is said, insisted she should be killed. Her life was spared on condition that she promise not to tell her family or the police.

Ivens and another were delegated to follow Mrs. Hollister to see that she kept her word, but Ivens, it is said, trailed her until she passed his father's carpenter shop. There, it is believed, he decided upon a second attack, and her murder was the result.

One of the boys said to have figured in the assault is the son of a grocer in Lincoln avenue. Another is the son of a City Hall employe. A third has been arrested for burglary. The fourth is Ivens, and the name of the fifth is not yet known to the police.

MARONEY IS SILENT.

He and Sager Refuse to Discuss Kansas City Visit.

Stating that the progress of the police graft inquiry which they are pushing demands that nothing be said of their investigations, Circuit Attorney Sager and Police Commissioner Maroney, who returned Friday morning from Kansas City, declined to discuss the results of their visit.

It is generally understood at the Four Courts that Sager and Maroney visited Kansas City to locate Maud Williams, mentioned prominently in the trial and dismissal of former detective Lee Killian, and Belle Brown, former residents of the "Bad Lands."

GAUSS GOES TO PRISON.

Phillip W. Gauss, 30 years old, of 5938 North Market street, convicted of embezzling $9600 from the Mercantile Trust Co., of which he was teller, has been taken to Jefferson City Penitentiary to serve a term of two years.

Gauss, a member of an old St. Louis family, was engaged to be married at the time of the embezzlement. He wrote to his fiancee breaking the engagement and condemning himself bitterly. The defalcation was made good by his bondsmen.

HELD FOR WRITING TO THE PRESIDENT

Mrs. Holmes Thought Gotham Judges Conspired to Bring About War.

$4 A DAY FOR POSTAGE

Sent Letters to Monarchs and Congressmen — Husband Requested Arrest.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes of New York, upon her arrival in Washington, was taken in charge by the police authorities, confined in the House of Detention and her sanity inquired into. No decision was reached as to whether or not she is insane, and she was turned over to her husband, who returned with her to New York. She was taken in charge by the police at the request of her husband, who suggested that she is demented.

Mrs. Holmes has been writing letters to President Roosevelt, the crowned heads of Europe and to Senators and Representatives. She was located by means of a clew given by a letter she had written to a member of Congress. She requested him to call at the house of her cousin, Mrs. Juneau, at 75 S street, Northwest. He gave the letter to the police and three detectives went to this house and arrested her.

The woman thought the detectives were Congressmen. She did not offer any resistance. Mrs. Holmes came here for the purpose of seeing the President to prevent a great war in which the United States is about to be involved.

Thought Judges Conspirators.

The judges of New York City, she charges, have entered into a conspiracy to bring about a great war. She wanted to see President Roosevelt about it. She did not have an opportunity to visit the White House.

At one time she was confined in an asylum. The secret service men are in possession of a large number of letters written by Mrs. Holmes. It was stated that she spent $4 a day in postage. She is about 38 years old, slender and was neatly attired. She protested against being placed under arrest and declared that a mistake had been made.

At the House of Detention Mrs. Holmes talked rationally and did not appear to be mentally deranged. She said:

"I am surprised that I have been arrested. I know my husband did not request it. I did not disappear and he knew that I had left for Washington. I have not written any letters to the President or to the crowned heads of Europe. I know nothing about a war in which the United States is about to become involved. I wrote letters to two congressmen, who are my friends, and one to Chief Wilkie, whose brother was my physician."

Mrs. Holmes wrote letters to Dr. Minor Morris, the husband of the woman who was ejected from the White House, and requested him to call on her. She also spoke of a conspiracy against her husband.

WROTE TWO LETTERS A DAY TO HUSBAND.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—William Holmes, the husband of the woman arrested in Washington, has a place of business at 29 Gold street.

"My wife," said he, "is a beautiful and well-educated woman. About eighteen months ago I noticed that she was acting queerly, and after consulting physicians I had her committed to the Riverecrest Sanitarium on the Hudson. She was there only a few months, when she escaped and went to live in New Jersey. Since then I have been receiving two or more affectionate letters a day from her. It is hard for me to have to place her in an asylum again, but I must do it."

ROOSEVELT WILL NOT VISIT M. S. U.

But Promises to Attend Commencement Next Year if Possible.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Roosevelt has declined an invitation to address the students of the Missouri University at their commencement next June. The Missouri congressional delegation called at the White House and presented the invitation.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his determination to refrain from making such addresses in the future, and stated that he would make fewer addresses of any kind than he had in the past. In view of the fact that he had declined similar invitations from the universities of Illinois and Kansas, he said he could not consistently accept the invitation of Missouri.

The President promised, however, to attend the commencement exercises in 1907, unless unforeseen circumstances prevent. He made this promise to the delegation after explaining why it was impossible to make the trip this year.

Gardiner Lathrop of Kansas City, chairman of the Board of Curators, headed the delegation. With him were Walter Williams of Columbia; Campbell Wells of Platte City, who are members of the board, and Judge John D. Lawson, dean of the law department of the university.

Dr. Robert S. Smith, dentist, specialist in crown and bridge work. 405 Merchants' Exchange Bldg. Tel. Main 208.

Pennsylvanians Elect.

The Pennsylvania Society, at its annual meeting at the Mercantile Club, elected the following officers: President, E. E. Darlington; first vice-president, Joseph Johann; second vice-president, Joseph F. Wangler; third vice-president, Dr. V. H. H. Miller; secretary, S. W. Fletcher; treasurer, Isaac M. Mason. The constitution of the society was amended so as to make eligible to membership all native Pennsylvanians residing in East St. Louis or St. Clair County.

What Spices are

Spices are flavoring powders extracted from certain leaves, twigs, berries, nuts, etc. Ordinary commercial spices are simply these things pulverized,—husks and all. They may be pure enough but it takes a teaspoonful of such spices to season as much as a pinch of because Schotten's is the extracted spices—nothing but spice. In cans.

Schotten's Spices

70 FALL INTO CHURCH CELLAR

Floor Collapses Under Weight of Crowd Attending a Turkey Supper.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—Seventy persons were precipitated into a deep cellar when the flooring of the vestibule of the Congregational Church in Boyleston Center collapsed last night under the weight of a crowd of people who were attending a turkey supper.

Henry L. Hepburn was seriously injured, several other persons were so badly hurt that they required the attention of physicians, while nearly all suffered from shock and bruises.

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS?

Do You Fear Consumption?

When we take into consideration the fact that one of every seven in this climate die of consumption, is it any wonder that it is feared by people of St. Louis who have weak lungs and chronic colds and coughs?

A famous London physician has for years urged his patients, when the slightest tendency to consumption appeared, to take the best cod liver preparation they could find, and physicians everywhere have recognized that the cod's liver contains curative values for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption and all wasting diseases unequaled in medicine, but, unfortunately, few could take and derive any benefit from old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions on account of the indigestible grease which they contain.

Every person in St. Louis should know the value of the new cod liver preparation, Vinol. It actually contains in a concentrated form all of the strengthening body-building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work.

Therefore, where old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions would do good, Vinol will do far more good. We guarantee Vinol will improve the appetite, strengthen digestion, make rich, red blood, create strength, cure chronic coughs and colds and strengthen weak lungs. Vinol fails to give satisfaction, we return your money without question. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.

BLOWN TO DEATH THAWING DYNAMITE

Kirkwood Sewer Worker Killed While Holding Explosive to Fire.

COMRADE STOOD NEAR

Little Injured, Although the Houses for Blocks Around WereShaken.

Samuel Miller, 30 years old, whose father is understood to be a Lindell boulevard property owner, was instantly killed by an explosion of dynamite at Kirkwood Friday morning.

Miller was a member of a sewer gang in the employ of Contractor John J. Burns. He was thawing some dynamite over an open fire on Geyer road, at the western limits of Kirkwood, where a sewer is being laid, when the explosion occurred.

William Smith, approaching the fire, had just said "Good morning, Miller," when there was an explosion which shook the houses for several blocks around. Miller was hurled some distance. Both of his hands and the top of his head was blown off.

Although Smith was quite near, he escaped the force of the explosion, and his only injury was the bursting of his ear drums.

Miller had been boarding for three or four months at the home of Mrs. Price at Taylor avenue and Madison street. His effects were searched, but nothing was found to indicate the name and address of his father. He had remarked, however, to those around the boarding house that his father was well-to-do and owned property on Lindell boulevard.

An inquest will be held Friday afternoon.

LIFE TERM FOR TRAPPE.

Slayer of Belleville Saloon Keeper Weeps at Verdict.

After considering the case for two days, Judge B. R. Burroughs of the Belleville Circuit Court sentenced John Trappe to life imprisonment late Thursday afternoon. Trappe entered a plea of guilty Tuesday to the murder of Henry Link. Testimony was heard by the Judge to guide him in imposing sentence and he took the case under advisement.

Trappe was unattended in court Thursday save by the officers who took him from the jail to the courtroom. Neither his attorneys nor any of his family were in the courtroom when sentence was pronounced. When the Judge passed sentence, Trappe broke down and had to be helped from the courtroom by deputy sheriffs.

Henry Link was shot at his saloon on East Main street, Belleville, last Labor day. John Trappe and his nephew, Oscar Trappe, became involved in a quarrel in the saloon with the bartender over a difference of 10 cents. Link entered the room during the quarrel, but took no part in it. During the quarrel Trappe pulled his revolver and shot Link, causing almost instantaneous death. He escaped and was not captured for nearly a week. He was arrested at Union, Mo., while trying to borrow money from a relative with which to travel to Colorado.

FELT CONDUCTORS' TOES.

Man and Boy Accuse Street Car Employes.

Warrants charging assault and battery have been issued against J. W. Rutherford, conductor on the Olive street line, and Conductor Wheeling of the Laclede line. Frank Hussey, member of the House of Delegates from the Twenty-second Ward, charges that Rutherford kicked him as he left an Olive car.

Willie Cogan, a newsboy, 12 years old, of 1606 Olive street, charges that Wheeling kicked him from a Laclede car at Seventeenth and Market streets. Cogan was taken to City Dispensary suffering from scalp wounds.

Frank Donnelly, a "newsboy," 23 years old, is charged with disturbing the peace by creating a panic on a Cass avenue line car at Sixth and Market streets. Bert Leach of 2533 North Spring avenue, conductor, alleges that Donnelly boarded the car and provoked a fight. Policemen Enright and Lane found Donnelly and Leach were having fisticuffs, and women passengers were hurrying from the car.

ORDER'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

Archbishop Honors Helpers of the Holy Souls.

The 11 sisters who constitute the community of Helpers of the Holy Souls in St. Louis celebrated the golden anniversary of the founding of the order Friday afternoon at the convent, 3889 Delmar avenue. Archbishop Glennon presided, Rev. P. W. Tallon assisting, and Rev. J. J. Sullivan, spiritual director of the community, preached a commemorative sermon.

The order, founded 50 years ago by Mother Marie de la Providence, had its first convent in Paris, and was not represented in America until 1892. The sisters visit the poor and assist the working classes. Their chief religious function is to pray for suffering souls in purgatory.

Need of More Parks.

The necessity of building up St. Louis on a plan similar to the plan on which Washington, D. C., is built, and the need of more parks and a zoological garden, were matters discussed at a meeting of the Executive Committee, in session with other committees of the Civic Improvement League at St. Louis Club Thursday night. Mayo Fesler, secretary of the league, read a paper along the lines indicated. In the discussion which followed advances made by other cities were commented on. The Executive Committee is composed of Mayo Fesler, Richard Singer, Henry T. Kent, Saunders Norvell, Benjamin Taussig and T. S. McPheeters.

Bananas Spoiled, Buyers Sue.

The Merchants' Bridge Terminal Railway Co. is one of two defendants in a suit filed in Circuit Court by Natoli Bros. Fruit Co. From that corporation and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. the fruit firm asks $250 damages because of delay in shipment of a carload of bananas bought by Natoli Bros. in Mobile, Ala. Natoli Bros. say in their petition that the bananas were purchased July 30 last and arrived in East St. Louis Aug. 1, but were unreasonably delayed about 18 hours before they were forwarded to St. Louis. It is alleged that the bananas were damaged and ripened when received and the company lost $250 on the shipment because of the delay.

DID A WORLD OF GOOD

MADE A HAPPY MAN OUT OF A WRETCHED DYSPEPTIC.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cure Heart Pains, Dizzy Spells and Weakness.

Easy to get, hard to get rid of; that is what most sufferers think of dyspepsia. They are astonished when their stomach begins to trouble them seriously. They can't think of any adequate cause.

They have been eating hurriedly and irregularly for a long time, to be sure, but they supposed their stomachs quite used to that. Why should they give out all at once and make them restless and sleepless and faint and dizzy?

Some people know that the strength which the weak stomach needs, and for the lack of which the whole body is suffering, can be found surely and quickly in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In hundreds of instances these pills have succeeded where every other remedy had failed, and in every case the cure was radical.

"My indigestion," said Mr. J. R. Miller of Dayton, Va., came in the first place from the fact that a few years ago I worked a great deal at night, and ate at any odd hour whenever the chance came, and always very hurriedly. One day I found myself a victim of terrible dyspepsia. It kept me miserable all the time for several years.

"I always had a great deal of distress after eating, and when I got up from my sleep my stomach would be so weak that it would hardly take any food. I had very uncomfortable feelings about my heart, and was dizzy and, whenever I stooped over and then straightened up, my eyes would be badly blurred.

"I read the statements of several persons who had got rid of obstinate stomach troubles by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought some and they did me a world of good. They acted promptly and did just what was claimed for them. I have no more distress after meals; the bad feeling has gone from the region of my heart; the alarming dizzy spells have disappeared, and I am strong again."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained at any drug store. They can be used with safety for any length of time as they contain no opiates, stimulants or harmful drugs. A diet book of great value to dyspeptics can be had free by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

CKETT PLANS REAL SURPRISE"

to the Post-Dispatch.

ANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—"My next will be a real surprise. It will like a bolt from the empyrean was the statement Senator ett, author of the resolution to Senator Depew, made after an-ling that he received a cablegram "Andy" Hamilton, the legislative agent of the insurance ring and custodian of the "yellow dog" fund.

The Saratoga Senator declined absolutely to show the cablegram or to divulge its contents. His statement about the surprise which he would soon spring threw about the message an air of mystery. That he had written to Hamilton, the Senator himself announced during the debate on the Depew resolution last Tuesday.

The report that he had just received a cablegram from Hamilton brought down on him a bunch of newspaper men and statesmen with eager inquiries. To all of them he replied: "I can't say anything just now. Wait a while."

The movement to trace the "yellow dog" money sent to the Capitol, through a legislative inquiry, is being opposed by some of the Senators on the ground that it would be better to wait until the Armstrong committee reports, as the committee might throw some light on the subject.

WANTS TO BUILD AEROSTATION HERE

Hippolyte Francois, Builder of Biggest World's Fair Airship, Returns.

PLANS BIG EXPERIMENTS

Interests Prof. C. M. Woodward, Who Gives Him Letters to Many.

Hippolyte Francois of Paris, the inventor whose giant airship was exhibited at the World's Fair, has returned to St. Louis to consider the establishment of an aerostation here and to interest the public generally in the subject of aerial navigation. He reached St. Louis Saturday night after spending several days in New York. In that city an amusement company wished to make terms with him concerning the building of an aerostation there, but he said that he preferred to come to St. Louis, where he had friends.

He conferred with Prof. Calvin M. Woodward of Washington University in regard to the matter and has now gone to Coffeyville, Kan., where his interpreter, Mme. Maignan, resides. He intends to return to St. Louis and make further investigation. While here he visited at the home of A. F. Godefroy, 3504 Olive street, who is a countryman and a fellow inventor of his.

To Experiment With Ships.

M. Francois' idea of an aerostation is a place where experiments are made with airships and where airships start for other points. He says that he is willing to work with such an aerostation, whether the purpose be business or amusement, since the cause of science will be advanced in either instance.

The airship which he showed at the World's Fair is now in Paris. He has reduced the size of the frame so that it can be carried in a single freight car and is ready to bring it back to St. Louis if it is wanted here.

He has been advised to make his experiments in Washington, and while willing to do so if it is for the best, he would rather see St. Louis have the first aerostation in America.

He says that he cares nothing for financial results, if it is only possible for him to do what he can for science. Prof. Woodward was much impressed with his spirit and gave him letters to men interested in the subject.

M. Francois' airship occupied a large portion of the Aerodrome at the World's Fair. He ascended in it several times, but it did not make a flight. He wished to make a flight the day of President Roosevelt's visit, but was unable to do so because of lack of hydrogen.

CHILD TRIES TO BUNCO MISS ALICE

Writes Pathetic Appeal for Money and Is Spanked After Investigation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 19.—A wise precaution saved Miss Alice Roosevelt from being fleeced by an 11-year-old Milwaukee girl. The local authorities will not give the name of the girl.

The child had read how poor children had written pathetic letters to persons of prominence and received presents of money. So she sent as pathetic a letter as she could devise to Miss Roosevelt.

She told of her six sisters and brothers, saying that they were starving and so ragged they could not get out on the street to ask for a chance to earn a few pennies. She said the home was chill and almost bare of furniture.

The letter touched Miss Roosevelt, and she had her secretary look up the case. The Associated Charities here was notified and after an hour's investigation replied that the child wanted the money to buy candy and doll's dresses. The girl was spanked by her mother.

WALLING NOT ARRESTED.

Report of His Detention at St. Petersburg Denied.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The correspondent of the Associated Press at St. Petersburg, having been queried concerning the reported arrest of William English Walling in that city for revolutionary activity, telegraphed today that Mr. Walling has not been arrested and that the report to that effect is without foundation.

The Associated Press received the statement that Mr. Walling had been arrested from Abraham Cahan, editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, yesterday, and accepted it as correct.

BOYS CONFESS TO ROBBING A PRIEST

Parents of One Youth Also Accused of Larceny in Warrants.

FEASTED IN BRICKYARD

Police Recover Two-Thirds of Sum Stolen From Study Desk.

Warrants charging larceny were issued at Clayton Friday for five boys, four of whom confessed that they had parts in the plot which led to the theft of $117 from the study of Father Andrew Meyer of St. Andrew's Church, south of the city limits.

Alexander Lachner, 14 years old, leader of the boys, admitted that he took the money and divided it with his companions, Henry Rasche, aged 13; Henry Rosner, 14, and Louis Bummert, 13. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Traff and their son Albert, aged 13, were also held on warrants charging larceny.

The boys will have a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Hummer Saturday.

Father Meyer left Alex Lachner in charge of the parochial residence Tuesday afternoon. When he returned a few hours later the boy was not there, and the money was missing from the priest's desk.

Henry Rosner said Friday to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"When Father Meyer went away and Alex was left in the house, we knew he was going to get some money. We waited for him at a brickyard not far away. Pretty soon he came out and he had lots of money.

"We went down to the store and bought sardines and potted ham and crackers and soda water, and we had a big dinner at the brickyard. When we were dividing the money, two boys we know came along, and we gave them each $2 not to tell.

Constable Gardner found $20 and a silver watch under the steps of Henry Rasche's home. Louis Bummert had $25 and Henry Rosner $8.25 when arrested.

Mr. Traff turned over to the Constable $23, which he said Alex Lachner had given to him to keep.

The Traffs protest that they knew nothing of the theft, and that they took the money from the boy because they suspected he had not got it honestly, and that they intended to return it.

The officers have been unable to account for $40.75 of the missing money, and the warrant against the Traffs was caused by Alex Lachner's charge that he gave them more than $23.

Trapp is a fisherman. He and his wife spent the night at Carondelet Police Station, where the Rache and Laechr boys were also held pending their removal to Clayton. Constable Gardner, with three boys, stopped at a boarding house in Carondelet over night.

The prisoners were brought into the city because there is no jail at Bobringville.

"LIFE'S A BLUFF," SAYS MANSFIELD

Declares We're All Actors, Each Playing His Chosen Character.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—"Life's a bluff, and, if you're wise to the game, you'll bluff with the rest of humanity. The difference between the man off the stage and the man on it is often merely that the first acts, while the other acts acting."

This was the pith of an address on the drama made by Richard Mansfield to 700 hurrahing students in Houston Hall University of Pennsylvania.

"Each man who has made his mark has chosen his character, the character best adapted to him, and has best played it. Abraham Lincoln had his idiosyncracies, his gestures; Daniel Webster, who never, never lost an opportunity to act; or Grant, who chose for his model William of Orange, surnamed The Silent. The first thing a man thinks of when he has to face an ordeal—be it a coronation or an execution—is: 'How am I going to look? Shall I appear calm and dignified, or happy and pleased?'

A Man Afraid.

"We are apt to say, 'the natural.' As a matter of fact, is man ever natural? The bravest man is the man who is afraid, and yet faces danger. If he were entirely natural he would run away. He acts the part of a brave man.

"Actors on the stage are scarce. Actors off the stage are plentiful. Life insurance presidents, with directors and trustees, have been so busy acting their several parts and are now so busy unacting them—men are so occupied from childhood with the almighty dollar that imagination is dying out, and imagination is necessary to make a poet and an actor.

"The art of acting is the crystallization of all the arts. It is, therefore, the most difficult of all the arts. Mediocrity houses no opposition, but strong individuality and forcible opinions make enemies. Many an actor has set out with an ideal, but, failing to gain general favor, has abandoned it for the easier method of winning popular acclaim."

Layman Conducts Funeral.

One thousand persons attended the funeral of Capt. Reinhardt Mueller of Salvage Corps No. 2, who was fatally injured by being thrown from the corps wagon at Ninth and Locust streets. After the reading of the funeral service of the Knights of Pythias by James E. Cowan of 2017 Eads avenue the Knights accompanied the body to Missouri Crematory. Eight members of Salvage Corps No. 2 acted as pallbearers.

FOUR FOLK MEN SUFFER DEFEAT

John C. Roberts Loses Race for Jefferson Club Directorship.

KERN ELECTED PRESIDENT

Scholl, Caucus Candidate for Secretary, Beaten by Decisive Vote.

Robert H. Kern, who headed the organization ticket, is the new president of the Jefferson Club, after an exciting election, in which 680 votes were cast. The remainder of his slate won, with the exception of Charles Scholl, who was defeated for the office of secretary by Edward P. Farrell, and of John C. Roberts, Joseph Ward and Patrick Rowan, who were defeated for directors by M. K. McGrath, D. P. Leahy and Glen B. Arnold.

Gov. Folk, who arrived in St. Louis at 6 p. m. Thursday, while the election was in progress, on his way to deliver a lecture on "Representative Government" in Boston, made no effort to learn the results of the election. He said all the men on both tickets were good, and would suit him. The Kern ticket was supported by Gov. Folk's local appointees, notably Excise Commissioner Mulvihill.

Mr. Kern was elected by 336 votes, defeating Jeff. J. Prendergast, for whom 314 votes were cast. The vote for secretary was: Farrell, 475; Scholl, 308. For the offices of first vice-president, second vice-president and treasurer there was no opposition. The new officers are:

President, Robert H. Kern; first vice-president, Frank M. Estes; second vice-president, James W. Corcoran; third vice-president, Andrew J. Butler; secretary, Edward P. Farrell; treasurer, M. J. Mulvihill; sergeant-at-arms, Andrew J. Sheridan; directors—Arthur J. Donnelly, Nelson W. McLeod, John P. McDonough, Thomas E. Mulvihill, Michael K. McGrath, David P. Leahy and Glenby B. Arnold.

Praises Folk and Wells.

After the result of the election was announced Mr. Kern expressed his gratification at the result, and saying he appreciated the "valiant work" done by Harry B. Hawes, Horace Rumsey, John C. Roberts, Virgil Rule and others. He indorsed Gov. Folk and Mayor Wells, and said his administration of the club's affairs would be independent. Mr. Kern succeeds Mr. Rumsey, who was elected a year ago, after Harry Hawes had presided over the club six successive years.

There were three ballot boxes at the clubhouse, and the voting, beginning at 9 a. m. Thursday, continued 12 hours. The excitement was as great as if a city election was in progress.

The annual meeting of the club was held Thursday night. President Rumsey spoke briefly of the past year, and Secretary Combs read his report. Mr. Combs was secretary of the club five years. Treasurer Ballman's report showed total receipts during 1905 of $74,035.46, and total expenditures of $72,853.39, leaving a balance of $1182.06. The outstanding liabilities of the club are $3303.35, which, with the assets deducted, is $2005.82.

Mr. Combs was presented with a gold watch and chain by George Neville in behalf of the club.

SEEK KIDNAPED CHILD.

Mrs. Roosevelt Stirs Up the Indianapolis Police.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, is indirectly the cause of the Indianapolis Police Departments' search for the kidnaped daughter of Mrs. Paul V. Skillman.

The child, Pauline, aged 4, was stolen by Mrs. Skillman's divorced husband on the night of Nov. 12, 1905. Some woman in Indianapolis wrote to Mrs. Roosevelt, giving her the details. Mrs. Roosevelt interested Senator Beveridge in the matter. The police intimate that they have the child and the parent located in a certain city.

Promised to Get License.

When Charles Koerner of 4900 Arsenal street, charged with being a lid-lifter, was arraigned in Wyoming Street Police Court, he tried to plead his own case, but gave it up as a bad job. That was Wednesday. The case was continued until Friday and when Koerner appeared in court he was accompanied by Attorney Carl Ungar. Through him Koerner stated that he recognized the futility of trying to conduct a club under his present charter, which was issued in 1888, and after promising to take out a saloon license he was discharged.

'CONSULATES SHELVES FOR WORN-OUTS"

—Root.

Secretary of State Declares Openly That Eminent "Have Beens," Shying at Examination in the Three Rs, Represent the United States Abroad.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Secretary Root, while appearing before the House Appropriations Committee in relation to the expenses of the State Department, spoke frankly concerning the shortcomings of the American consular service. The statements of Mr. Root, which have just been made public, show that in response to questions by Representative Livingston, the Secretary said:

"There are a great many consulates that have been in poor condition and there are some that are still in that condition, and the fact arises from several causes. One cause is that consulates are regarded here, not as places in which active and sufficient work is to be done, but as places in which to shelve estimable and elderly gentlemen whose friends find it necessary to take care of them in some way.

"Now, I have got old enough to be able to say that sort thing without anybody being offended. I do not think that when consulates were to be graded. The original appointments were to be only to the lower grades, and the upper grades were to be filled by promotion, so that we would catch fellows young, while they still had some motive power left in them. These provisions have been stricken out and the bill reported without them. Still, the bill makes a great advance over the present system."

Reciprocity Bureau to End.

The approaching end of the active work of the reciprocity bureau was heralded in Mr. Root's statements about the expense for its maintenance.

Representative Littauer asked Mr. Root if the bureau would be permanent, and the Secretary of State provoked a laugh with the following reply: "The indications are that it will not be. The making of a system of reciprocity treaties does not appear to have the elements of eternal life."

In discussing trade conditions in China and the necessity for gathering information concerning commercial troubles there, Mr. Root said:

"There is no occasion for sending a commission to China. Our ministers and consuls at the treaty ports of China are commissioned now. If these gentlemen will come up here I will bury them in papers so they cannot dig out for a week.

Cause of Trouble in China.

"We have bushels and bushels of reports from perfectly trustworthy American witnesses as to what has been happening in China and as to the cause thereof. The trouble now is not ignorance as to what the conditions are; it is in applying the quite plain and simple remedy. There have been two troubles: One arising from the fact that the law, the Chinese exclusion, a man has lived out the activity of his life and lost hold on his ambition and his energy and his desire to make a career for himself—I do not think that then is the time to start him out in a new place where he has got to learn a new business and push the commerce of the country."

The following interlocution then took place:

Mr. Brundige: I quite agree with you, Mr. Secretary, as to that, but upon whom rests the blame for that condition?

Secretary Root: It has been a long standing custom whereby the executive is expected to appoint to important consulates important men from the different States.

Mr. Graff: But you have a system of examination?

Secretary Root: Yes, so far as the young fellows go. You can put the screws on them and make them come up for examination. But when an eminent citizen——

No Three Rs for an M. C.

Mr. Livingston: "An eminent ex-Senator or member of Congress?"

Secretary Root: "Yes. When an eminent citizen comes around, you cannot examine him in geography and arithmetic. He resents it and there is the dickens to pay all along.

"It is a custom that has grown up—just like this deficiency custom. When you step in to change a custom you cannot change it piecemeal; you have to jar something.

"Take this consular bill which is now pending. When it was introduced it contained a series of provisions under which the act includes some provisions which experience has shown to be ill advised and the other is that the law has been administered in a harsh and inconsiderate way.

"The President has remedied the administration, I think, in so far as the law permits him to do, and the thing to be done now is for you to change the law in some respects; not so as to permit the Chinese laborers to come in, but so that the Chinese laborer can be kept out without insult and indignity and hardship to the Chinese merchants and scholars and the men who occupy the same position in the Chinese community as the people in this room occupy in ours. They have been subjected to gross indignity and gross hardship in many cases and I do not wonder that they are indignant at it."

NORMAL REGENTS OUT.

New Springfield School Alters Warrensburg Board.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 19.—In an opinion by Assistant Attorney-General Blake, forwarded to Gov. Folk's office today, it is held that members of the board of regents of the Warrensburg State Normal School, who reside in the newly created Springfield State Normal School district, are by that fact removed from their positions.

This will remove W. N. Wharton of Carthage and Judge James T. Neville of Springfield from membership in the board of the Warrensburg Normal. Wharton is a Democrat and Neville is a Republican. Both places will be filled by Gov. Folk soon. No salary is paid to the regents.

Edward Wilkinson Prosecuted by Miss Schmieder Gets a Continuance.

The case against Edward A. Wilkerson of 3747 Chippewa street, the colored barber accused of striking Miss Anna Schmieder of 3716 Oregon avenue and of hugging and kissing her on the night of Dec. 28, came up for trial Friday in the Court of Criminal Correction, and was laid over until Jan. 30.

The continuance was asked by Wilkerson, who says that he wants to obtain the attendance of one Nicholas Laughlin, whose testimony, he claims, will prove an alibi for him. Service on Laughlin has not yet been secured. The alleged attack on Miss Schmelder is said to have taken place at Chippewa street and California avenue as she was on her way home from work.

POET HONORS JOHNSON.

Sonnet Read at Attorney's 70th Birthday Celebration.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Charles P. Johnson celebrated his seventieth birhtday Thursday evening with a gathering of relatives and friends at his residence, 4300 Washington boulevard. Those present were his sons, Ralph O. Johnson and family, Albert W. Johnson and family and Miss Louise Johnson; his brothers, Attorney John D. Johnson and Col Richard M. Johnson and their families, L. C. Johnson, Harry B. Hawes, Lewis Ely, Virgil Rule, W. P. Burnett, E. Walton and M. Shipley. Appropriate remarks were made by several members of the party, and the following sonnet by R. E. Lee Gibson, formerly of St. Louis, but now of the City of Mexico, was read:

Now, having come to that serene, ripe age,
Touching the Psalmist's three-score years and ten,
After much toil among thy fellow men,
And entering, as we trust, life's calmer stage,
Much is there left to cheer thee and assuage
Thy labors yet; to call forth, now and then,
Those talents that, employed with tongue or pen,
May still the world's attention oft engage.
Thou hast not sought mere riches to possess—
Thy forte lay in the forum, not the mart;
Wisely life's baser wants did'st thou repress,
And all thy life didst choose the better part;
Honors thou hast, and competence no less,
And friends and children to console thy heart.

Gov. Johnson, who was born at Belleville, Ill., came to St. Louis at the age of 19, and for 49 years, ever since he attained his majority, has been practicing law. With two exceptions he is the oldest member of the St. Louis bar. He was City Attorney at 23, was in the Legislature from 1862 to 1865, Circuit Attorney for six years and Lieutenant-Governor. He was out of politics after that until 1881, when, with the aid of the Post-Dispatch, he broke up the great gambling rings and had enacted the Johnson gambling law.

MAJ. CASEY WITH THE BAT.

Maj. Thomas F. Casey, who is in charge of the engineering office in this city of the Mississippi River Commission, has gone a long way out of his proper function to discuss the value to commerce of river improvement work. If Maj. Casey is efficiently doing the work of his office, he is taking care of all his responsibilities and may leave the question of the commercial value of an improved river to the business men and to Congress.

But, as a matter of fact, Maj. Casey is without facts upon which to base an argument either for or against the value of an improved river. His argument is based upon future contingencies. He says if the river is not used more than it is now, when an eight-foot channel all the year round has been assured, then it would perhaps be well to abandon the work. Let us have the eight-foot channel before we decide whether an eight-foot river is of value to the commerce of the Mississippi Valley.

On the subject of the value of waterways, there is in opposition to Maj. Casey's argument the experience of every country that has tried the improvement of waterways and the building of canals. On the value of canals alone, not only in this country, but in France, Germany—everywhere that they have been built—there is an overwhelming mass of favorable statistics. It would be a waste of space to discuss the matter.

The trouble with the Mississippi is that the engineers in charge of the work have never accomplished the object for which the work was initiated. The plans have never been adequate nor the money sufficient to give the valley a useful channel all the year round.

The Business Men's League, in planning for a convention of all the representatives of the valley and asking for larger appropriations and more extensive plans, is working along the right lines. The league should still further expand its plans. It should plan for a ship canal between the lakes and the gulf. It should organize the entire Mississippi Valley on a demand for an adequate plan and an abundant supply of money to make a navigable waterway for large vessels from New Orleans to Chicago. The people of the valley should demand that Congress treat the Mississippi River as it has treated the Panama Canal in the matter of plan and appropriation. The work should be done on a large scale, continuously, until completed, and not in little sections with makeshift devices from year to year.

St. Louis could well afford to drop the litigation against the Chicago drainage canal and join with Chicago and with all the people of the valley in asking for a larger waterway. A ship canal would temporarily dispose of the sewage danger until the sewage question could be settled in a manner which will prevent the contamination of rivers.

M. LOUBET IN A FLAT.

M. Loubet, whose term as President of the French Republic, expires next month, is weary of office. He wants to retire to the quiet of his own "little flat in Paris."

There are flats and flats, but just think of an old man looking forward with pleasure to life in any kind of a flat.

What makes M. Loubet's eagerness the more remarkable is that he is peasant-born. He knows the woods and the brooks, the bugs and the beetles. He has actually seen birds in the air, not English sparrows, and is familiar with all the delights of the life of nature.

And yet he longs for his "little flat in Paris."

Well, he is a good old man, and has served his country long and well. He deserves whatever he wants, and if he wants a flat, we may wonder, but not less hearty will be our hope that he may have many happy years wherever he may settle down.

Prescriptions sent by telephone are as dangerous as those written in Hebrew-Sanscrit which some physicians affect.

A WIFE IS A LUXURY.

In the course of a ruling in a divorce case, Judge Gary of Chicago solemnly observed that "a wife is a luxury, and a husband must pay for his luxuries." This was said in reply to the husband's plea that he couldn't afford to pay alimony $1500 a year.

Judge Gary is a Daniel and a Solomon both in one. And, shall we add, a Dogberry? No, that would be contempt of court, but we can say that he is a humorist.

If a wife is a luxury, does it follow by contrary that a husband is a necessity? This view is not feminine, but philosophical. A wife implies the opposite, a husband; and if the wife is a luxury, of course the husband must be a necessary or necessity.

The whole domestic problem is thus made clear and solved. That the wife may flourish in luxury, the husband must exist in necessity. The two are antithetical and inseparable. Should the wife's luxury be abolished the husband's need would evaporate.

Thus Judge Gary's opinion, which is, of course, legally incontrovertible, leads to profound philosophical and domestic consequences. It may not be plain to women, who will resent being classed with olives and mince pie and old editions. But that signifies nothing. Women's sense of humor is naturally weak. They never could understand nonsense.

Mere men are losing ground. Women are usurping them in so many activities that the reversal of duties which humorists have suggested looms greater than a possibility. And now it is scientifically demonstrated that the Western American woman is taller than the Western American man. How this has been ascertained is the subject of a very interesting article in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

"DEFENSELESS TO HIS ENEMIES."

President Roosevelt is indeed in pitiable plight. The weapons of his enemies have been hurtling thick about him, without doing him any desperate damage. He talked too much about Panama and did too much about Morocco. Yet he dodged the senatorial stilettos with nothing but a loss of dignity. He talked too little and did too little about Mrs. Morris. Yet he ducked the popular meat ax with nothing but a loss of skin. He hurled his boomerang too zealously at the influence of boodle on the House, but when it sailed back to smite him in the solar plexus of his own patronage, it left him bruised and breathless, but still upon his feet.

But "ye who have tears prepare to shed them now." Now, when Ben Tillman mixes the crystals of truth with the wind of revilings and hurls the conglomerate mass at his presidential prey without evoking a word of refutation from one of his 56 Republican fellow Senators—now the tragedy of our executive is deep and dark indeed. For the most bitter Republican attacks on the President are not so cruel as the absence of Republican defense against a Ben Tillman.

France's new President is grandson of a blacksmith, but he studied law and became a Mayor and legislator and Cabinet minister. M. Fallieres could scarcely have done better in the United States.

UPSTARTS IN POLITICAL HISTORY.

When the grandson of a blacksmith becomes President of the French Republic, at the beginning of the twentieth century, we have only to turn back to the beginning of the nineteenth to realize the meaning of republican institutions in Europe and in the world.

In the France of today, M. Fallieres succeeds to the highest place in the Government so quietly that it hardly gives Paris an afternoon's enjoyment of the "new emotion" Paris is said to crave above everything else. In the France and the Europe of a hundred years ago, M. Fallieres would have been an "upstart," with the world of inherited and bought privilege in arms against him, as it then was against all "upstarts" in politics.

The change is still far from the roots of things in Europe, no doubt, but with Toryism at its high tide during the last 10 years, France has still advanced along the lines of republicanism until now, with its republican stability unquestioned, no King and no Emperor thinks of calling the blacksmith's grandson an upstart when he is elected President of France.

Progress may be slow, but this is certainly progress. The world goes on moving in its orbit and even Toryism moves with it.

The Imperial Chinese Commission in this country to study industrial conditions should be invited to attend Mr. Hadley's interviews with the octopus.

There is too much standing pat in matters that should be sat upon.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

SUGGESTIONS FOR TRACTION OFFICIALS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There are three things the street railway companies might do with but little trouble or expense that will add to the satisfaction, comfort and health of their passengers.

1. See that conductors keep the bottom step of cars clear of passengers. The obstruction and danger to people getting on and off cars when there are men standing on the bottom step is obvious.

2. Instruct conductors in the proper way of taking fares and see that they follow it. The conductor should always extend the open hand, palm upward, for the fare. The present practice of picking the fare from the fingers of passengers is frequently nasty from dirtiness of fingers, frequently results in dropping of coins to the floor and there is always the annoying uncertainty of just when to loosen hold of the coin. In New York and Boston the conductors will not pick the coin from your fingers or palm; you must drop it into his open hand. The practice works much better than ours.

3. Fasten the forward transoms on each side of the car, permanently open at an angle of 45 degrees. It can be hooded on the outside cheaply and easily to prevent rain coming in. This will insure a constant if limited change of air at all times. This ventilation is demanded by the ordinary rules of hygiene. No attention is paid to the matter by street car presidents, important as it is. A decent regard for the comfort and health of passengers calls for an intelligent, persistent action along this line.

JOHN SMITH.

ANOTHER COMPLAINT.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What is the matter with the street car service of our city The people should get service for their streets and not have to wait twenty or thirty minutes for car service. Just watch the O'Fallon cars and see if there is a kick coming. A SUFFERER.

A FUND FOR MRS. MUELLER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I send the inclosed $5 to start a subscription list for the widow and children of Capt. Reinhardt Mueller of the Salvage Corps who was killed Monday in a collision. OTTO JORDAN, 2115 Cass avenue.

POOR SERVICE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On Saturday night last, accompanied by several ladies and gentlemen, I came from Webster on the Housman line, changing to the Delmar line at 12:25 a. m.

The conductor of this car obliged all passengers to get out at De Baliviere avenue, although he was going to Pinney and Taylor to "turn in"—and some of us were going only to Walton avenue. Twelve minutes later we took a through Olive, No. 38.

Among the passengers already on the car were several young ladies and their escorts, three noisy, drunken young men, and four or five motormen or conductors. There was no attempt made to suppress the profanity or disgusting conduct of the young men, and the motormen and conductors sat on the front seats, near the stove, and smoked.

Was this car run for the accommodation of the employes? If not, why is it not made a fit place for ladies and gentlemen? PASSENGER.

CONTEMPORARY KNOWLEDGE.

We all laughed during the Spanish-American war when a Madrid newspaper assured its readers that the States of Missouri and Illinois were too hotly engaged with their Indian wars to send any troops to Cuba, but what shall we say of Manufacturer Patterson of Baltimore, who gave a dinner to a Kansas Congressman and some of the M. C.'s Kansas friends, and did not wear his dress suit because he did not want to embarrass his guests? The host was the only man at the dinner that did not wear evening dress. Mr. Patterson did not enjoy his dinner. When his ignorance of that with which he was dealing dawned upon him, he got excited. He ate his oysters with his salad fork and put sugar in his soup.

When will we all learn the necessity for having a broad contemporary knowledge? A few years ago a distinguished Hindu lady visited Chicago. The Hindus do not eat flesh, nor kill any creature for food. Yet, the reception committee hustled the eminent guest right off to the stockyards and escorted her into a slaughter house, where a huge trip-hammer slays a bullock every fifth part of a second. This is Chicago's pride. The Hindu lady looked at it, screamed and fainted.

When John L. Sullivan was in his prime, he went to London. One night he went out for a walk. A couple of sailors, espying his huge diamond stud, fell upon him with a pair of belaying pins. Mr. Sullivan doubled up his big Boston fists, parried the blows, and knocked his assailants into the deep ooze of the River Thames.

The wages of ignorance are severe.

COULDN'T FORGET.

He owed a great deal to the friends
Who aided him when woes beset him.
It was a debt
He couldn't forget,
Because, good faith, they wouldn't let him.

INCONSISTENT MAN.

A St. Louis man is suing his wife for divorce because she has not spoken to him for eight months.

Now, just supposing that she HAD spoken to him for eight months.

What then?

Truly, the ways of a man with a woman be strange.

BARGAIN COUNTER WIVES.

A Wife's Rights Outlined for the Post-Dispatch
By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

Dear Miss Greeley-Smith:

IN selecting garments one is allowed to examine the goods. If found "all wool and a yard wide" and otherwise satisfactory, they are accepted. If later they appear unsuited to your style of beauty, or we tire of them, they can be given to the valet, poor relatives or hung up at "uncle's." A balky automobile, a "skate" horse or a dog can be got rid of. But it is different in acquiring a wife. A young man with a clean bill of health married a woman supposedly up to the same standard. In a year she had to undergo a serious surgical operation, the forerunner of many others, the result of an ailment which she knew of before marriage. Now she is an invalid, fretful, peevish, irritable and irritating. The husband from principle will not get a divorce. Don't you think a physician's certificate of health should be exhibited or filed by marriageable women?

A VICTIM.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH

OF course, the proper thing to do with a letter of this kind is to have hysterics over it, to denounce the cruel, monstrous man seeking to repudiate the wife who had given the best years of her lif to him and who is likened to a yard of goods, an automobile, a selling plater and a dog.

These comparisons are, to be sure, very unfortunate. Nevertheless, I don't agree with the general idea that a wife is privileged to voice her dissatisfaction with a bad bargain to the four winds of heaven, and that a husband under similar circumstances must say nothing and grin and bear it. Of course, he has to bear it, but if he wants to omit the grin, far be it from me to say him nay.

The suggestion about health certificates before marriage is not a new one. Neither would it be practicable so long as love remains the matrimonial motive of the majority of men and women. For romantic love takes no heed of any obstacle and would pay no attention to a physician's prohibition.

But this same love has always and will always beat their philosophies, however beneficial the practical application of them might be.

Marriage inevitably has its victims. It is not designed for happiness, as any one wife who has ever undertaken it knows without hearing from Dr. Felix Adler on the subject. It is simply the most expedident principle of living for the race. We misapply it to the happiness of the individual and some of us get "sold."

To revert to commercial imagery, we know that the most reliable shops mark certain goods "damaged." But there is a far greater number that leaves us to find out the crack in the crystal or the defect in the glove after we have taken them home.

If a similar system of ticketing were to be enforced among men and women considered in their mental and moral aspect, as well as in the matter of health, the whole world would be a walking bargain counter.

But this system, nevertheless, leaves us love, which must either destroy any attempt at scientific marriage or be destroyed by it.

SLANG IN COURT.

Report by W. H. James.

Judge Daniel O'Connell Tracy has announced that witnesses must refrain from using slang while testifying before him.—News Item.

Gee, hear de bloke wot's holdin' down de bench;
A guy dat's pinched has got to spiel in French,
Or some such hifalutin' line o' talk
Or go skidooin' down de booby walk.
You pipe a snitch dat tries to trow you down
An' shoot you to de works or out o' town,
An' when you fix yer mug to tell de fax
De guinea on de woolsack gets an ax
An' tumps you on de noodle good an' hard
An' sends you off to Andy Scully's yard,
To run a dump cart special down de chute,
Which ain't no lead pipe cinch, an' dat's de trut'.
Why can't a fellow say, "Yer honor, see
I ain't a stringin' you, it's up to me
To put you wise dat Monkey Face Maguire
Began dis scrap by callin' me a liar.
Dat made me huffy an' I trew my mitt
An' hit him an' we mixed a little bit.
Our wires got crossed an' Monkey's lamp went out
An' so I t'ought dat I'd just go de route
An' put my trade mark on his ugly map
So he'd remember dat he had a scrap."
But what you goin' to do when Tracy balks
And pulls de form sheet when a guinea talks.

Here's where I duck my nut; the bridge fer me
De Grammar an' de judge say: "twenty-tree."

THE ORIGIN OF SPEECH

BY VICTOR HUGO.

Literal translation from La Derniere Gerbe (which has just been printed in Paris) made for Current Literature.

WHENCE comes the word? Whence comes language?

From whom do we derive the words which are the fabric of our speech?

Writing and the alphabet—whence come they?

Plato beheld I issuing from the subtle air; Messene copied M from the bucklers of the Mede; the cranes in the flight give Y to Palamede; Perseus heard the roll of R in the barking of the dog; Z revealed itself to Prometheus in the lightning; O is eternity, the serpent gnawing its tail; L, F and G were seen in the blue vault, confused gestures of the airy clouds.

Nevertheless, the grammarians dispute all this.

D is the triangle in which God is upborne by Job; T is the fatal cross that inspired Ezekiel's dreams.

Think you now that the problem is solved?

Did Triptolemus in his harvesting let fall words even as the wheat fell beneath his scythe?

Did the Greek blossom from the lips of Euterpe?

Did Hebrew come from Adam or Celtic from Irmensul?

Dispute this as you will, it is certain that no one knows who placed in the void, pointing to the glorious ideal, the letters of the ancient alphabet—those stairs by which the human mind mounts to the sacred heights, those five and twenty golden steps of the ladder, Thought.

OUR RAILROADS

PROF. FRANK PARSONS, in an article in the January Arena, entitled "The Railway Empire," sums up the magnitude of this interest as follows:

"The railways of the United States would circle the globe 12 times, and the cars and locomotives on their tracks, if coupled in a string, would reach from the north pole down over all the zones to the heart of the southern frigid, take a loop about the south pole and hang down 2,000 miles beyond. Last year these railway lines that net the country like a spider's web carried over 700,000,000 passengers and 1,300,000,000 tons of freight—an average of about nine rides and 22,000 pounds for each man, woman and child in the Union. The railroads employ directly about 1,200,000 persons, and indirectly in car shops, locomotive works, mines, rolling mills and other accessory industries that furnish railway materials, etc., they give employment to about as many more, affording sustenance to 2,500,000 workers and their families—something like 10,000,000 people, or one-eighth of our total population, without counting the Western farmers and other producers, who could not get their goods to market without the railways. Their capitalization is $13,213,000,000, or nearly one-seventh of the total estimated wealth of the nation.

COL. TODHUNTER

He Falls Off the Water Wagon With the Direst Results Because of Defeat.

A Phonograph of His Woes for the Post-Dispatch

By Ripley D. Saunders.

"YOU behold in me, suh," said Col. Thurs. T. Todhunter, lugubriously, "a man on whom calamity has jumped with both feet, causing a double disaster of simultaneous nature. At one and the same moment, suh, I was last night defeated for the Jefferson Club presidency and fell off the water wagon, suh. The consequent jolt, suh, was too terrible for the tongue of man to describe.

"It was bad enough to encounter defeat in my presidential aspirations, suh—and, while I am not a man to cry 'treachery!' because of my opponent receiving votes that I had reason to believe would be cast for me, I must say that my failure to figure more prominently in the balloting was the surprise of my life, suh. Where were the friends of Col. Thurs. T. Todhunter last night, suh? What of their pledges to stick to him through thick and thin, suh? Who is responsible for his being so suddenly and unexpectedly snowed under, suh? I am justified, suh, in asking these questions.

"And I pause, suh, for a reply.

"But that isn't all, suh. With my defeat for the Jefferson Club presidency, suh, 18 days of acute anguish in the Dry Tortugas of total abstinence ended in woe and desolation, suh. When the result of the vote was announced, suh, showing that Col. Thurs. T. Todhunter had run like a man with one wooden leg and cramp in the other, suh, I determined to drown my sorrows in drink, suh. And I was licking my chops with anticipation of the glorious delights of my first toddy, suh, my mouth watering till my back teeth were submerged, and my whole being stood a-tiptoe in joyous expectation on the misty mountain tops, suh, as the poet says. Anyway, come what might, that first toddy would be a balm of Gilead to Col. Thurs. T. Todhunter's soul, suh.

"But man that is born of woman is full of trouble, suh.

"I give you my word of honor, suh, that when I tilted back my head and permitted that toddy to trickle down my throat, I received the shock of my life, suh. Instead of tasting like the ambrosial nectar of the Gods on high Olympus, suh, it tasted just like the last toddy I had imbibed at 11:55 o'clock New Year's Eve, when my capacity for enjoyment had been dulled by too copious refreshment, suh. It was even less satisfying, suh, because it seemed to the dadblamed bartender had made it too sweet—and a sweet toddy is an abomination to man, suh. Grief, suh? I tell you, suh, you don't know what grief is until you've suffered what I did then.

"And worse still, suh, instead of making me feel friendly and at peace with all the world, that toddy and its swift successors, suh, put me in a quarrelsome mood and I provoked a personal difficulty with everybody in my immediate vicinity, suh. If my recollection serves me right, I should say, suh, that I'm now on a war footing with at least two-thirds of the Jefferson Club membership, with fights enough on my hands to keep me tussling till kingdom come, suh.

UNDER THE STORK'S WING

A Post-Dispatch Friday Good-night Story.

By Izola Forrester

THE minute that Babiola heard the tapping on the glass she opened the window and the stork stepped over the sill. He was a young stork. Babiola knew that by his feathers. They were white and newly fledged, and even his bill was shiny and new, and he seemed to be rather nervous as he shifted a bundle from his left wing to the right one and looked around the nursery.

"Is this No. 65 Rose Terrace?" he asked.

"No, sir. No. 45 Rose Terrace," Babiola said, trying to get a peep at what was in the bundle. It was something alive, because she saw it move a little bit, but it was covered up so closely and cosily that not a glimpse even could she get.

"Dear me," sighed the stork, standing on one leg, with his head on one side. "Then I've made a mistake in the house. I never did like night trips. You can't see the numbers. I don't suppose you'd like one left here, would you?"

"One what?"

"Why, my goodness gracious, don't you know?" exclaimed the stork. "Just look here."

It lifted up its wing and Babiola opened the covering around the bundle so that she could see under it, and there lay, all cuddled up asleep like a bird in its nest, the prettiest, rosiest baby you ever saw.

"It's a boy," said the stork. "He never cried all the way down, and it's quite a chilly night. You're sure you don't want him left here?"

Babiola shook her head positively.

"Mamma says Bobolink and me are all the baby brothers she wants around. We're twins."

"Twins? Well, of course, twins are a bother," answered the stork. "They're awfully hard to balance when you're flying. But my mother carried triplets once all the way from our nest to Palm Beach, Fla.—one under each wing, and the other she had to hold in her bill. And, do you know, even when she reached the place and left them the folks didn't act grateful one bit. Isn't that a baby over there in the cradle?"

"Isn't she sweet?" she asked.

"Real pretty," said the stork. "She's the jointed kind, isn't she? I've seen them before. I don't carry that kind. Santa Claus does."

"Did you carry Bobolink and me?"

"No, indeed. This is only my second trip. We young storks are not trusted with regular trips. We only substitute when there's a rush. And I made a mistake on my very first trip, so they wouldn't let me go again for ever and ever so long."

"What did you do?" asked Babiola, "drop the baby?"

"No, it was worse than that. I didn't go to the right place. It was a darling baby, too." (The stork shook its head half sadly.) "A little bit of a one, and I was sent to a number way off down by the river. It was my first trip, as I told you, and maybe I wasn't feeling pretty important when I flew away with that bundle. But when I saw the house I stopped and perched on the roof to consider. It was the poorest, old house, tumbledown and unpainted, and there were children all around it. I counted five sitting out on the front fence, and there were more in the backyard and some in the kitchen. None of them saw me, for it was getting dark, and I slipped down and looked in the kitchen window. The mother was rocking a baby to sleep—one about as big as you."

"I'm five," interrupted Babiola.

"So much? Well, this one was about three. And the mother was singing to it and hugging another one close to her and smiling at another one setting the supper table. And, do you know, there was really so little to eat on that supper table that I felt ashamed of peeking in. So I went back and perched on the roof to think it over. It did seem wrong to take another baby into that poor, little house, when there were so many already. So I thought and thought about it and didn't know what to do, and all at once I remembered what a brother stork had told me of the beautiful home uptown where there was lots and lots of money and plenty of room for babies. It made me so happy that I flew straight off uptown until I came to where the beautiful houses were. This is uptown, isn't it?"

"I don't think so," said Babiola. "We're suburban."

"Then you don't know anything about it. Suburban is plain country, with telephones and street cars. Uptown is where rich people live in the city. There are rows and rows of beautiful houses, and not a blade of grass to be seen anywhere. And the curtains at the windows are silk and lace, and all the windows have burglar alarms on them so that storks and robbers can't get in. I hunted until I found the handsomest one of them all. It was white stone, with a long, curving flight of steps, and I saw a face at one of the windows that was so lovely I knew it must be a mother-face. So I went up the steps and pressed the electric bell with my bill, and what do you suppose? The lady with the lovely face came to the door and said she didn't want any storks around at all and slammed the door right in my face. Wasn't that awful? And there were dogs there, too; little, sassy dogs with curly hair and big silk ribbon bows on their pretty collars, and they barked at me, grinned and told me to fly away or they'd snap my legs. Just think of it! Why, it scared me so I nearly dropped the baby. But I hunted some more, because it did seem too bad, so many beautiful houses and not a place for my poor, little bundle. And at last I found a house. It was late at night. I didn't make a single noise. There was a window open on the second floor, front, and I flew in. Oh, it was the loveliest room you ever saw, all rose color and gold. I laid the baby down beside the mother. She was quite young, that mother, but she was so pretty I thought it would be all right. Then I flew away."

"And it was all right?" asked Babiola. "Did they love the baby?"

"No, indeed, they didn't!" cried the stork indignantly. "They rushed right out and found a nurse for it—the stiffest, starchiest, properest nurse, that didn't know how to cuddle a baby or love it one bit. All she could do was to fix its bottle and trot it out in a carriage every day. And every time the baby cried the mother had a nervous fit and told the nurse to take it away and make it keep quiet. And its father looked at it once and said its nose was crookd and it was too bad it wasn't a boy. Now, what do you think of such folks? I felt so sorry for the poor, little baby I could hardly hold my head up, because, of course, it was all my fault. And at last (the stork spoke very gently and softly) one night when the mother was away the Death Angel went to the house and took the baby away from the nurse and carried it back to where it would be loved."

"I hope you won't leave this one where there's only a nurse," said Babiola. "Do, please, find a mamma for it."

"Bless your heart, I mean to," exclaimed the stork heartily. "No more uptown beautiful houses for any babies I carry. Why, do you know, they sent another baby to that poor, little, old house, and the mother and father and ten other kidlets loved it most to death. Yes, they did. I suppose folks have to bind of get used to babies to really appreciate them. Good-night."

"Good-night," called Babiola. "Don't toggle it, will you?"

But the stork spread its wings and flew out over the housetops toward No. 65 Rose Terrace, and Babiola shut the window and went back to cuddle Toots in her arms. Of course, she was only the jointed kind, as the stork had said, but Babiola loved her almost as well as though she had come in a bundle, tucked under the stork's wing like the really, truly kind.

MANN'S LETTERS SHOWN IN COURT

Contents Conflict With Testimony of Town Topics' Chief Editor.

JUDGE DEUEL WITNESS

Denies That Refusals to Subscribe to Book Were Followed by "Roasts."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Queer tactics of Town Topics in handling society news were exposed by the defense in the trial of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, charged with having criminally libeled Judge Joseph M. Deuel, when it compelled Col. William D. Mann, chief editor of Town Topics, to acknowledge that he wrote a letter to M. Ellis Wooster of "Fads and Fancies" fame, in which the Colonel referred to Count Reginald Ward as having left 5000 shares of stock for the Colonel with Wooster.

This acknowledgment followed the announcement made by James W. Osborne of counsel for Mr. Hapgood, that he would prove by documentary evidence that Col. Mann, for a certain sum of mony, caused a pleasant paragraph to be printed in "Town Topics," and that he would also show that before this money consideration was paid "Town Topics" printed some very mean things about the person referred to.

The letter of Col. Mann was admitted in evidence. The two paragraphs from "Town Topics" which dealt with Count Reginald Ward have not yet been admitted.

Letters Contradict Testimony.

Another sensation was caused just before court was adjourned when Mr. Osborne, after getting from Col. Mann a denial that he had ever instructed anybody connected with "Town Topics" to "let up" on some and go after some other persons, about whom paragraphs appeared in the paper, handed to Col. Mann two letters in the Colonel's own handwriting, in which he instructed the person addressed to "let up" on Henry T. Sloane and to be nice to Mr. and Mrs. McCormick, and to make it appear that former Congressman Perry Belmont and his wife, who was divorced in New York by Henry T. Sloane, "go to the best affairs here."

Just what Col. Mann's explanation will be about these two notes remain to be seen. He will be given an opportunity today.

Judge Deuel, testifying, denied point blank that persons who refused to buy "Fads and Fancies" at $1500 each were lambasted in "Town Topics."

Mr. Osborne then handed Judge Deuel a long list of names, which were the proposed subscribers to "Fads and Fancies." Names of persons who had refused to subscribe were stricken out in most instances, and about some of these slurring paragraphs had appeared later in "Town Topics."

CADET BLOEBAUM'S HAZING WELCOME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 19.—The trial of Midshipman Chester A. A. Bloebaum of St. Charles, Mo., on charges of hazing, was resumed before the court-martial this morning, George H. Mann, Bloebaum's counsel, addressing the Court in his behalf.

Six under classmen stated before the courtmartial yesterday afternoon that they had been hazed in one form or another during September last by Midshipman Bloebaum.

Bloebaum is an appointee of Congressman Champ Clark. He did not go on the stand, nor did he offer any witnesses in his defense.

Levin H. Campbell Jr., the first witness, said that Bloebaum had put him on his head several times, and fixed the occasion as shortly before 5 p. m., on Sept. 22.

He remembered it, he said, because it was the first time he had been hazed. He said that Bloebaum had made the rounds of the fourth-class men's rooms, asking them to tell him when he was to leave Annapolis. If they did not answer correctly they were told to stand on their heads.

Oscar C. Green said that Bloebaum had stood him on his head and then he had ordered him to precede Midshipman Desaussure and himself and open the doors of all the fourth-class men, announcing at the same time the approach of their majesties, the Irishman and the Black Prince.

They would repeat the questions, the witness said, and then stand the "plebes" on their heads.

Encore Une Femme.

William D. Kilduff testified he was hazed to the point of collapse because he had gone to Lovers' Lane in obedience to the request of a young lady.

He said that Bloebaum had compelled him to sand on his head from fifty to one hundred times, hang on the locker with feet extended and back to locker, perform the "crew" for about five minutes and do the "sixteenth" about a hundred times, all in rapid succession.

"I was used up," he said, in answer to the question, and was sore for several days afterwards."

Kilduff told how Joseph M. Deem had been hazed at the same time.

Deem corroborated the testimony of Kiduff, and said that Bloebaum had put him on his head about fifty times and made him do the "sixteenth" and "leaning rest" until he was exhausted.

Edgar N. Caldwell of Glasgow, Ky., then came on the stand and stated that Bloebaum had ordered him to write a letter to a young lady in Annapolis, fixing a date when Bloebaum could call.

He had refused to do this, he said, and Bloebaum had made him lie on a box and raise and lower his legs until it was impossible for him to continue.

Iowan Next Defendant.

The next case to be tried is that of Charles M. James of Grinnell, Ia., a member of the second class. Like Meriwether and Bloebaum, James was ordered to stay at the academy during September last, when the other upper class men were on leave, because of deficiency in his studies. He occupied part of his time, it is charged, in initiating the members of the new fourth class into academy life.

The sales of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis each day are greater than the number of St. Louis homes.

SIMPLICITY MARKS FIELD'S FUNERAL

Three Services Are Held for Chicago's Millionaire Merchant.

EMPLOYES HOLD ONE

Auditorium Packed to Doors at Memorial—Body in Graceland Vault.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Funeral services for Marshall Field were held today at his late home, 1905 Prairie avenue, and the First Presbyterian Church. The services at the home were held at 11 o'clock and were characterized by simplicity and brevity, and none but those immediately connected with the family and household was in attendance.

The service at the church was an hour later and was attended by many of the friends of Mr. Field. This service, too, was private and admission to the church was gained only by card.

In the afternoon a memorial service was held in the Auditorium, which was packed to the doors by the employes of Marshall Field & Co. Rev. John A. Morison, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated at all three services. The body of Mr. Field was placed in the vault at Graceland Cemetery directly after the second service of the day.

The services at the church consisted of a prayer by Dr. Morrison, the reading of a portion of the Scriptures, and the rendition of two hymns: "Lead, Kindly Light," and "I Am Near Home."

At the conclusion of the benediction, Dr. Morrison asked that the congregation remain standing in their pews while the casket was borne from the church. It was taken to the hearse, preceded by Dr. Morrison, while the organ played "Handel's Death March" from "Saul."

At the cemetery only the pallbearers and members of the family were present. The management of the cemetery, in order to avoid the crowding of the grounds, had given notice that during the afternoon no one would be permitted in the grounds, with the exception of the members of the funeral parties. Final arrangements for the interment of the body of Mr. Field will be made later.

Retail Stores Close.

Never before in the history of Chicago has such respect been paid to the memory of a private citizen as was shown today to that of Mr. Field. During the hours of the funeral services at the house and the church, all of the large retail establishments on State street were closed, and the 1000 enterprises o erated by the members of the Chicago Commercial Club in all parts of the city were closed.

The Board of Trade held but a brief session, and on every clubhouse and prominent office building in the business section of the city flags were displayed at half-mast.

A number of mass meetings were held by various organizations during the day, and resolutions eulogizing Mr. Field were adopted.

DEPEW IS ILL; WILL NOT RESIGN

Senator Confined to New York Home After Return From Capital.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Senator Depew, who reached Washington Tuesday, returned here early yesterday. Except to some of his friends, his presence here was not known until late in the day. He met several of these friends, but for what purpose is not known. Through his secretary he sent out word at his house last night that he was not well and that it was because of that fact he had returned to New York.

"Is Senator Depew's illness serious? Is he confined to his bed?" the secretary was asked.

"No," was the reply. "It is not as bad as that, but the Senator did not feel equal to remaining in Washington; and, besides, he had other reasons for coming home. What those reasons were I cannot state."

In reply to a direct question the secretary said:

"I can tell you positively that the Senator has not the least intention of resigning from the United States Senate."

Charles C. Paulding, a nephew of Senator Depew, said that his uncle had taken a cold a few days ago and this had resulted "in a slight indisposition" because the Senator had neglected to take care of it.

At the dinner of the Transportation Club last night it was announced that Mr. Depew, who is president of the club, would be unable to attend on account of illness.

Mrs. Depew is in Europe.

Silver Wedding Feast Robbed.

A two-gallon can of ice-cream for the guests at the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Todebush of 5245 Maple avenue, was stolen by a crowd of boys. Mr. Todebush fired two shots to call the police.

THE EASY OIL.

Scott's Emulsion is "the easy oil"—easy to take, easy in action. It's use insures deliverance from the griping and nauseating sensation peculiar to the raw oil. Nobody who has any regard for their stomach thinks of taking cod liver oil in the old way when Scott's Emulsion is to be had. It is equally certain that no one having a regard for their health will accept a cheap emulsion or alcoholic substitute for Scott's Emulsion. It fulfills every mission of cod liver oil and more.

CRAZED YOUTH LEAPS TO DEATH

His Mind Unbalanced From Overstudy, Lad Jumps From Third Story.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Crazed from overstudy, 14-year-old Herbert Carson, after driving his mother and father from the house, threatening to cut them with a carving knife, dived from the third-story window of his home last night and was killed.

AN ART SHOW CRITICISM

Contributed to the Post-Dispatch
By Gladys Canby.

THERE is something very funny about St. Louis people, and this realization breaks upon one with great force when they are studied on special occasions. Last evening the Western Artists held a strictly informal reception at the Art Museum, to which a hundred or more of the supposedly strictly elite received tickets of invitation, and they came—a thoroughly interesting congregation of humanity.

Did they view the pictures? Yes, incidentally, but this dear elite was so intent upon criticising one another that the artists, and their productions for the most part, escaped unscathed.

Yes, there is something funny about St. Louis people—or should I broaden my view and say, rather, about humanity in general. The fat woman in the rich gown, who walked on her heels and made report of other people's attire, did not suspect that when she turned her head other people had fun at her expense.

There were groups of rich-attired maids and matrons, who stood around in picture gowns and hats and posed. One heard funny remarks from the few who did give slight attention to the pictures, showing that the society for the promotion of St. Louis art is a long-felt want. One little woman waxed enthusiastic over a little autumn scene by some promising but obscure artist.

"Now," she declared, "if that were signed Cerot, instead of Corrigan (?) people would just simply rave over it."

Perhaps the little woman was just in her criticism; we all know how much there is in a name. It was flattering to the aspiring artist, at least. The man and woman who came simply, as informally, to view the pictures were amazed. Henceforth they will know the meaning of an "Informal Art Reception," viz: Your best clothes; your worst manners; your absolute indifference to the pictures.

WE SELL DIRECT ALL THE CLOTHING WE MAKE

The Man Who Wants a Really Good Suit or Overcoat Can Get It Here for a Great Deal Less Than He'd Have to Pay for It Elsewhere

This fact has been proven time and again, but it was never more clearly demonstrated than during this Mid-Winter Manufacturers' Sale. We're selling the best clothing that can be made at about ONE-THIRD LESS THAN ANY OTHER STORE IN THE CITY. It doesn't take any great amount of reasoning to figure out why this is so. You see, we make all the clothes we sell on the top floors of ours and the adjoining building, and having no middleman's profits to pay, we can afford to sell for less than the stores that have to buy their clothing in the open market and naturally must pay a profit on what they buy. We sell direct to you at practically the same prices they pay.

In Memoriam.

A loving one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Yes, we miss the guiding hand,
The kindly word and smile,
But his memory we will cherish
And treasure all the while.

AMATEURS OPPOSE GAME WITH PROFS.

St. Rose's Boys to Quit West End League if St. Leo's Play Professionals.

The determination of the St. Leo's socker eleven to play a picked team of professionals Sunday will probably result in a complete reorganization of the West End Amateur Socker League.

The St. Leo's team has been playing an amateur organization for some time. Its recent action in arranging to play games with professionals has forced other members of the league to take definite action. At a meeting of the West End League, held Thursday night, representatives of the St. Rose's team discharged a few bombs that shook the St. Leo's to their toes.

Wednesday night at a meeting of the members of the St. Rose's team at its hall presided over by Manager and Captain Dooling, it was decided that the St. Rose's team should withdraw in a body from the league in case St. Leo's carried out its project of playing the professionals.

John Byrne, who is a member of St. Rose's and also secretary of the West End League, then explained to the members present that by withdrawing from the league they would forfeit the money deposited to insure appearance at games of contract.

On a vote taken it was decided the amateur standing of the members of the team was of more value to the members than default money, and it was resolved to abide by the original agreement and withdraw if St. Leo's insisted upon playing professionals.

At a meeting of the West End League Thursday night representatives of St. Rose's were present and explained the action decided upon at the meeting the night before.

President Klosterman of the league tried to dissuade St. Rose's from their projected course.

Finally it was resolved by the members of the St. Leo's team that they would play the game with the professionals and then see John J. O'Connor, president of the Western Amateur Athletic Union, and apply for reinstatement.

St. Rose's representative then withdrew from the meeting, announcing that if the St. Leo's team played Sunday's game, St. Rose's eleven would leave the league.

HOT Bingles From the Bat

Burke, Huelsmann, Leifield, Herr and Betts of the local baseball colony who have been training at the North Side Y. M. C. A. started their roadwork Thursday. Leifield and Huelsman traversed the northern roads leading along the river and Burke, Herr and Belts utilized the roads leading to the West.

Jack Powell was busy Thursday showing his friends a letter from Johnny Murphy, formerly Battling Nelson's manager. Murphy has young O'Leary in tow and left Miwaukee Monday for Frisco to match the clever 128-pounder with Kid Hermann.

Fred Glade, in a letter to a St. Louis friend, says he is hibernating at Grand Island, Neb., and that he would be enjoying himself were it not for the fear that some of his St. Louis friends will start the report that he has married.

Jack O'Connor, during training, will only weigh once a week. Wednesday he stepped on the scales and tipped the beam at 200 pounds, having lost 11 pounds in a little over a week of workouts. O'Connor plans to step on the diamonds in the spring at 180 pounds.

Harry Howell is another pitcher who does not believe that bowling injures the arm. Saturday, at New York, he broke the tenpin record for his team, while bowling in the Trolley Dodgers city.

Walter Frantz, purchased by the Cardinals from Kansas City, who will make a try for permanent possession of the third bag, is a brother of oGv. Frantz of Oklahoma, who was inaugurated last Monday. Orville G. Frantz, another brother, has been one of the most conspicuous athletes in Harvard in recent years. All this should help Walter.

"I see that Ted Kennedy, Sam Crane and others advocate moving the pitcher closer to the plate in order to increase the hitting of the batsman," said Jack Powell. "I don't know what they smoke, but if they make such a change, just watch me burn them up."

West End Bouts.

The desire of the boxers to represent the West End Club in the tournament of the Missouri Athletic Club, Jan. 26 and 27, resulted Thursday night at the West End Club in some of the cleverest sparring bouts that have been seen in St. Louis this season.

All the events were bitterly contested and fiercely fought and in a number of instances knockouts would have resulted but for the watchful eye of Referee Doyle, who stoped the bouts when he saw they were going beyond the sparring stage.

The best go of the evening was the contest between Johnnie Rogers and Wilbur Vandamant. The latter lad outweighed his opponent a few pounds, but Rogers more than made up this deficiency by his aggressive method of fighting.

An extra round was ordered before the judges were enabled to agree upon Rogers as the winner.

The following were chosen as a result of the meeting to represent the club at the M. A. C. meet:

One hundred and fifteen pound class: Joe Genall.

Heavyweight class: Herbert Dennis.

C. B. C.'s Sunday Socker.

A meeting will be held at Christian Brothers College Friday night for the purpose of organizing a Sunday league.

The C. B. C. team, which is a clever amateur organization, considering the youth of its members, has been playing in the Saturday Afternoon League all season, making an excellent showing.

As the boys have no Sunday games, Brother James, an enthusiastic devotee of the socker game, has been trying to arrange a Sabbath schedule. It is with this idea in view that the Friday night meeting was arranged.

The league, if formed, will probably be called the Brother James Sunday Afternoon League in honor of one of the most prominent workers in the cause of amateur socker in the country.

JACKSON HAD OWN IDEAS ABOUT FIGHTS

Great Negro Boxer Was Gentle and Affable, but Could Not See That Any Other Man Had a Strong Point—Jealous of His Reputation.

"Humility may be a blessing," says Biddy Bishop, the Western fight manager, "but let me tell you humility has no place in the make-up of most fighters. It will be a long time before I forget some experiences I had with Peter Jackson, the great negro fighter.

"I had Jackson in Vancouver a long time ago. The great Peter was on the verge of the seer and yellow. He had lived a life of ease, affluence and luxury that had left marks on him that no pugilist of his time could have made. I had Jackson and Jim Jeffords matched. Naturally I was press agent of my own club, and I thought it would be good business policy to boom the newcomer as much as possible. Accordingly, I billed Jeffords as the coming champion and played him up well.

Wanted to Be Starred.

"One day I met Jackson on the street before the fight and he hailed me. 'Say, "Biddy,"' said the great fighter, 'how is it that Jeffords gets all the advertising in this fight?' I explained to him the importance of billing up an apparently unknown. I told him that his name was sufficiently well known to attract attention, and that it was policy to boost the other man so as to draw a nice crowd out to the fight. Jackson couldn't see it that way, and I had to compromise by giving him some of the better notices afterward.

"He contended that it was the star that should be billed, the same as in the theatrical business.

"Jackson was always strongly self-opinioned, even in the days of his downfall," continued Bishop.

"When he was about to fight Jim Jeffries Jackson thought he could win. He believed thoroughly in his own powers and did not take kindly to advice.

Underestimated Jeff.

"Everybody in camp kept drilling into Jackson that Jeffries had a gruelling left-hand body punch. This was Peter's own pet blow, the one with which he wrought such havoc on Paddy Slavin and he was not in a mood to concede that any man living or dead ever had a very good left hand for the body except himself.

"When the fight rolled around the last instructions I handed to Peter was to watch out for the terrific left of Jeffries. He laughed in scorn. But he found out later that he was not the only man who possessed a left-hand body punch of mastodonic powers. In the fourth round of the fight Jeffries sent over the deadly left. It sunk into Peter's stomach, and he went down a mass of agony on the floor. He was out.

"After Jackson came to," continued Bishop, "I walked over to him and said rather curtly: 'I told you to watch out for that left hand.'

"'Left hand?' said Jackson. 'Why, he walloped my stomach with is right hand.'

"There was nothing left for me but to laugh and make the best of it, as the fight was all over," said Bishop.

But these incidents give an idea of the vainglory of most fighters.

RUGBY CLAIMS ANOTHER VICTIM

Claude S. Mackenzie Dangerously Ill From Effects of Kick on Head.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19.—Claude S. Mackenzie, fullback of the football team of the Case School of Applied Sciences here, is lying in a stupor in Lakeside Hospital, the result, it is declared, of the brutality of a player of an opposing team in a game played last fall. In his lucid moments, Mackenzie has said that one of the men of the rival team deliberately kicked him in the back of the head as he lay on the ground holding the ball.

Mackenzie is 24 years old, is president of his class, and was one of the ablest players of the eleven, the college champions of Ohio. His father, P. A. Mackenzie, traveling examiner in the office of the State Auditor at Columbus, declares that if his son dies he will surely proceed criminally against the man guilty of the brutality.

The five physicians in attendance upon young Mackenzie are unable to make a satisfactory diagnosis of his trouble.

IN Socker Society

Joe Reuter, despite his threat of resignation, will not abjure football. Indian Joe is too strenuous for the pursuits of social festivities.

With Connie Reed's team and the All-Stars at one park and the picked team of professionals at the other, there should be plenty of work for the guardians of the peace Sunday.

O'Shea, the manager of the Pilgrims, probably the most enthusiastic socker-ite in the city, threatens to play in the Pilgrims' line-up Sunday.

THE GAME of the Gentleman

Charlie Peterson won a hat from Dr. Stern on Hoppe's sensational victory. The latter has failed as yet to pay the wager, and Peterson now wants to play 100 or no count with the merry dentist for the hat that he didn't get.

Joe McMenamy plays a better game of billiards than he does baseball, and at that he is fortunate to average 1 per cent at balk line.

Messrs. Strickland, Ittner, Hogg and D. M. Smith played their weekly game in their lumberman's tournament Thursday at Hauser's. Straight rail conditions are governing the event and Messrs. Strickland and Hogg won.

Gundacker finally got his stroke Thursday night, and gave an exhibition of his true ability at three cushions in his match with Kramer, running 5 and defeating his adversary by a score of 35 to 15. He averaged 65.

In the Class A three-cushion tournament at the Grand, Wright defeated Boeckler, 30 to 9. The winner had a high run of 3 and averaged .60. Boeckler averaged .18 and scored a high run of 2.

White, who is the present holder of the State pool title, will play Maurice Balzheiser Friday night at the Broadway. The two players are tied for second place, and this fact should make the game an exceptionally interesting one.

W. J. Scott defeated M. J. Maloy Thursday night by a score of 100 to 28.

For the first time since the inauguration of the Hauser balk-line tournament, Artist Gray, the scratch man in the big local amateur event, met with defeat Thursday night. Wheeler was the contestant to beat Gray, and the score was 200 to 190. Wheeler's average was 2¾; high run, 17; Gray's average, 2 8-15; high run, 14.

Willis Defeats Sherwin.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WILKESBARRE Pa., Jan. 19.—Jack Willis of Philadelphia, defeated Victor Sherwin of England, in a 15-round go at Plymouth last night. It was Sherwin's first appearance in an American ring, and although he kept driving in and fighting gamely, Willis was too fast and too clever for him and was awarded the decision on points by Referee Hayden.

BOXER KILLED IN SPARRING MATCH

Kid Guck, Alias Nathan Rosenberg, Dies From Effects of Blow Over Heart.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—An 18-year-old boy, ill-nourished and in no condition to stand a gruelling contest, sustained a death blow last night, in a so-called boxing match, which was witnessed by 300 spectators in a rear room of Mount Morris Hall. Three knockouts were recorded in a score of other three-round exhibitions held in this city last night.

George McFadden's Physical Culture Club was sponsor for the bouts held in Mount Morris Hall. The third fight was announced as between "Kid" Guck, an alias assumed by Nathan Rosenberg, and George Fiss. Guck was pale-faced but plucky, and his desperate fighting in the first round was greeted with loud applause.

Spectators observed that his face was ashen as the gong sounded for the second round. Fiss sparred for an opening, but Guck apparently was unable to act other than on the defensive. Several times he met Fiss' blows with counters, but could inflict no severe punishment.

Fiss lead for the head and Guck stepped into a clinch. "Jack" Hastings, who acted as referee, shouted to the boys to "break." As they drew apart Fiss delivered a short-arm jolt with terrific force. It struck Guck under the heart. He collapsed.

Referee Hastings counted 10 slowly and still Guck lay motionless. The seconds crawled inside the ropes, picked up the boy and carried him to a corner of the room.

The men working over him with cold water and ammonia had failed to revive him. A spectator observed the boy's condition and summoned Detective Kammer. The officer saw at a glance that the boy was dying and a hurry call was sent to the Harlem Hospital, to which Dr. Berliner responded. He said that Guck had died before his arrival. He made a brief examination of the boy's body and said he was too weak to have undertaken any contest requiring physical exertion. The blow beneath the heart had brought death within a few minutes after it was delivered.

Inspector Walsh arrested Max Loeb, lessee of the place, and Joseph Davis and Herbert Sanders, both of whom, they say, acted as seconds for the fighters. The prisoners were charged with manslaughter.

The police also arrested nearly a score of spectators, who were held as witnesses. Fiss, the opponent of Guck, disappeared.

CONFERENCE RESTS ON MOORS' SUNDAY

Decides to Consider Only Questions Named in Franco-German Program.

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Jan. 19.—This being the Mohammedan Sunday, there will be no session of the international conference on Moroccan reforms, through deference for the Moroccan delegates. A Moorish villa served temporarily as a mosque, where the Moors redoubled their religious fervor in praying for the preservation of their country.

In the meantime the exchanges of views between the delegates of the powers have brought an agreement not to consider questions outside the prearranged Franco-German program. One result of this is to exclude the religious subjects, which the vatican is said to desire to introduce through Austria. However, one of the Ambassadors says that the Jewish question can come up, not as a religious issue, but as incident to the protection of the subjects of the Sultan.

Mohammed El Torres, head of the Moroccan mission, has informed the delegates that the Sultan is prepared to abolish the harsh laws requiring Jews to prostrate themselves before the mosques and other humiliating practices, but the delegates doubt the wisdom of their abolition, as Mohammed El Torres and the foreign ministers residing in Morocco say that the non-performance of this traditional obeisance by the Jews would excite an anti-Jewish outbreak.

It is expected that the Americans will strongly favor the amelioration of the condition of the Jews.

FLED WITH BRIDE TO DIE ABROAD

WAS FLOGGED BY BANDITS

Widow Disconsolate in Cheerless Home While Husband Succumbs in Hospital

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—After escaping from a band of Turkish bandits and braving many perils, in his flight from his native land, Mamprey Djgoym, a young Armenian, died mysteriously at the University Hospital, four days after his arrival in this city. There is a note of pathos in Djgoym's untimely death. He leaves behind him a young bride whose fond anticipations of prosperity in the land of the free have been ruthlessly shattered. She is alone and disconsolate in her cheerless and scantily furnished home.

Djgoym arrived in Philadelphia on Dec. 18, after an eventful journey from Armenia. He brought his young bride to the souse which had been rented for him by his brother-in-law, Myperrunz Gopzunz. Two days later he was taken suddenly ill and removed to the University Hospital. His condition became rapidly worse, and he died without acquainting the physicians with the circumstance of his sudden attack or his history.

Suspect Internal Injuries.

He was suffering from a raging fever, and while no wounds were discovered on his body, the physicians believe it is possible that he died from severe internal injuries. The exact cause of death, however, is a mystery, and Coroner Dugan has instituted a rigid investigation.

Friends of the dead man express the belief that his death was hastened by brutality accorded him while he was in the hands of the Turkish bandits. They claim that he made a plucky resistance. Gopzunz, who is the only one of the Armenians interested in the case able to speak English, visited the Coroner's office and told what he knew concerning his brother-in-law's sudden death. He said it was his belief that the brutal treatment of the Turks was in a large degree responsible.

"That Djgoym reached this country alive is surprising in itself," said Gopzunz. "The uprising of the Armenians who have been slaughtering the brutal Turks has embittered the whole Ottoman Empire against them. It has also given the lawless Turkish bandits on the frontier an excuse to kill and rob every poor Armenian they happen to meet. It was indeed, unfortunate that poor Mamprey decided to leave his native land during such troublesome times. He was tired of the tyranny of the Turkish officials, and, having just married his sweetheart, thought it best to come to America.

Flogged by Turks.

"All was well when he started off, but when he reached Trilozononne a band of Turkish bandits sprang forward in the road and made captives of the young couple. Mamprey and his bride were not killed on the spot because the bandits, noticing his prosperous appearance, wanted to get money from him. He paid over money to the value of about $100 on a promise of being released. The Turks broke their promise, and Mamprey, by communicating to his friends, got more ransom money. During the time Mamprey and his wife were in captivity they were brutally treated by the Turks. He afterward told me that he was frequently flogged across the chest and back with a heavy club. He bided his time, however, and finally managed to escape one dark night.

"When he came to this city he complained of being sick. I thought nothing of the matter until he was taken to the hospital. Then I thought of his experience with the Turks. I am sure that the exposure and ill-treatment while he was in captivity brought about his death."

RIPPLES of the Ring

Mitt Men in New York.

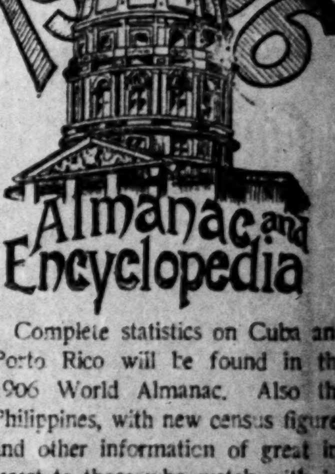

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Tommy Sullivan easily bested Jabber Carey in the star bout at the Marlborough Athletic Club last night.

Art Edmonds and Tony Bender boxed three fast rounds, and in the third round the milling was so fast that the 900 men stood upon their seats and cheered so loudly that they could have been heard several blocks away.

Austin Rice, the old-time pugilist, returned to the ring last night, and notwithstanding his age, he put up such a clever exhibition against Kid Abel that he was entitled to the referee's decision, had one been rendered.

SULLIVAN CONFIDENT HE CAN WHIP GANS

Though Betting Has Veered in Favor of the Black Man the Caucasian Is Certain That He Is Capable of Maintaning the Prestige of His Race.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—With Joe Gans, an odds-on favorite, the Baltimore negro will enter the ring with Mike (Twin) Sullivan tonight to battle 20 rounds at 142 pounds weight at the ringside.

Sullivan does not appear to be worried by the fact that Gans is the favorite in the betting. Jack Sullivan, who is with his brother, called attention today to the betting when Mike fought Jimmy Gardner, who was the favorite, and was easily beaten by Sullivan. The Sullivans are confident Mike will defeat the Baltimorean.

Willie Fitzgerald, the Brooklyn lightweight, who has been training with Gans, is delighted with his condition. He knows Gans well, having fought him twice, and he says Joe was never better than he is today. He is as clever as ever and fast and strong. Gans today offered to bet Sullivan, at the prevailing odds, that he will win.

Jack Sullivan said today that Gans was lucky to escape defeat in the Baltimore fight, and that it will take a good deal more than luck for him to win tonight.

Gans will enter the ring at 135 pounds. He claims he can make 133, and that he is still the lightweight champion.

Nelson-McGovern Match Goes Through the Finnegan-Flannigan Experience Again.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Terry McGovern and Battling Nelson, whose match to fight in Philadelphia on March 16 was declared off last Tuesday by the promoter who signed the boxers, will fight in the Quaker City after all. Jack McGuigan, matchmaker of the National Athletic Club of Philadelphia, the club that always makes good, sent a representative to this city yesterday with articles of agreement, signed by Billy Nolan in behalf of Nelson, calling for a six-round bout with McGovern on March 14 before McGuigan's club.

Joe Humphries, manager for McGovern, signed the articles without hesitation. Forfeits will be put up by the principals and the club in a few days, and it is unlikely that anything else will occur to interfere with the clash between these willing boxers.

LOCAL SECURITES ON THE DOWNTURN

Selling Is Better Than the Buying at Today's Session.

COMMERCE IS WEAK

Stock Loses a Full Point on Small Sales at $339.

Trading was active locally today, but in the majority of cases at the expense of values. The selling was apparently better than the buying at all times and the close showed the list at a lower level.

United Railways common, on sales at $42, lost ¼ of a point and United Railways preferred lost ¼ at $86.50. The bonds of the company were firm at $88.50.

National Bank of Commerce was the feature in the bank and trust list, closing a full point on sales at $339.50 to $339. Missouri-Lincoln Trust was ¼ lower at $139.50 and Mercantile trust lost one point at $391.

The miscellaneous list was fairly active, with St. Joe Lead and American Credit Indemnity the favorite issues.

RISE IN READING RALLIES THE RAILS

Big Buying in This Security and Other Leading Issues Gives the Bulls a Big Advantage, and the Close Is Animated and at the High Point.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Trading was very active at the opening of the stock market today, with pronounced gains made in some of the favored securities. The coalers and especially Reading showed excellent buying over night and this is taken to indicate that the chances of trouble in the coal fields are exceedingly remote.

London showd an irregular range on American securities before the local opening and arbitrage houses had stocks to sell. Money market conditions, both locally and abroad, continue to improve and funds are returning in large amounts to this city.

The Early News.

The later market for Americans abroad was firmer, although Consols are unchanged for both money and the account. There is nothing of particular importance in the foreign news and the Morocco conference seems to have been eliminated as a disturbing factor.

Monetary conditions abroad excellent. Comment on the Amalgamated Copper dividend is to the effect that it is conservative. The expected Lawson yawp appears in the papers this morning containing the usual misstatement of facts. Nobody but one of the public that Mr. Lawson refers to could have expected 8 per cent on Copper and no one with a knowledge of the business methods of the Amalgamated Copper directors expected 7 per cent. The facts in the case are too well known to have any particular attention paid to such statements. The preliminary estimates of cash changes today will show tremendous gains in cash by the banks and the bank statement tomorrow will be an excellent one. It is believed that the technical position of the market is excellent and the long account not dangerously extended. Money is loaning at 4½ to 5 per cent.

The Late Market.

Bullish enthusiasm rioted in individual cases, but there was enough stock offered to keep a majority of the prominent stocks within fractional distance of yesterday's close. Stocks in which there is a relatively small public participation went up in a sensational manner, but their strength was of less effect on sentiment than the buying of St. Paul, Union Pacific, New York Central and Reading. Some of the more important gains were the Linseed stocks, 4¼@4⅝, Consolidated Gas and International Pump 3¾, the preferred 2½, St. Paul, Pacific Coast and Havana Electric 2 to 2¼, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Northern Pacific, Ontario & Western, National Railway of Mexico preferred and Mexican Central 1½ to 1¾, and Union Pacific, New York Central, St. Louis Southwestern, Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Sloss-Sheffield Steel, the Allis-Chalmers stocks, American Agricultural Chemical, New York Dock and Hocking Coal 1 to 1½. U. S. Express fell 2 and Metropolitan Securities 1¼. Reading was carried up vigorously $6 per share and the entire list rose to the best of the day. The closing was animated at this level.

BIGELOW MAY BE PROSECUTED

Recalcitrancy on Witness Stand Angers Committee of Senators.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Poultney Bigelow may be prosecuted for refusing to answer questions asked by United States Senators. This matter will be taken up for final determination by the Committee on Interoceanic Canals today. Mr. Bigelow was a witness before this committee in connection with the investigation being made of Panama Canal affairs. He positively declined on two occasions to answer questions.

Mr. Bigelow was asked to name the engineers with whom he had talked, who, he said, had refused to accept positions on the canal because of the conditions prevailing on the isthmus and through fear of governmental interference. He declared with some mock heroics that the committee might put him on bread and water or send him to Colon, but it could not make him betray a confidence.

The committee immediately went into secret session to decide what course should be taken regarding the recalcitrancy of Mr. Bigelow. Senator Morgan took the lead in insisting that the dignity of the committee had been grievously assailed. He was aided by the more strenuous of the Republicans, led by Senator Hopkins.

Senators Gorman and Simmons and the more conservative Republicans said that Mr. Bigelow sought to become a martyr, and that they were opposed to gratifying this ambition. They argued that if immediate steps were taken against Mr. Bigelow it would prevent further testimony from him. They held that he should be permitted to conclude his statements, and then the committee could act, if necessary. Mr. Morgan urged immediate action. Mr. Hopkins favored this plan.

Involves Much Red Tape.

No vote was taken on the subject, but it was clear that a majority of the committee favored making an example of Mr. Bigelow. If the committee determines to prosecute Mr. Bigelow it must certify all the facts in the case to the presiding officer of the Senate, who, in turn, must refer the matter to the Department of Justice. The Attorney General must subsequently instruct the District Attorney here to bring action against Mr. Bigelow.

The last case of prosecution for recalcitrancy was during the sugar investigation during Mr. Cleveland's last term, when Elverton R. Chapman, a broker of New York, refused to furnish the names of Senators doing business with his firm. He was sentenced to serve 30 days in the District of Columbia jail and served out his sentence.

Mr. Bigelow has not made a favorable impression before the Inter-Oceanic Canal Commission. He appears to deal altogether with impressions and not facts. A majority of the committee feel that his charges against the management of the canal were entirely discredited, and some members believe this is so plain that he should be dropped as a witness. It was also apparent to the committee that Mr. Bigelow intends to give his views and theories rather than details of experiences.

Some members of the committee believe that the cross-examinations of Senators Knox and Hopkins had a tendency to hector the witness and that they went too far in badgering him regarding his examination of conditions on the isthmus.

PLEADS WIFE'S INSANITY.

Minor Sues Through Guardian to Annul Marriage.

Henry Lindhorst, through his guardian and brother, Charles Lindhorst Friday filed a petition in Circuit Court asking that his marriage to Josephine Lindhorst of 516 West Marceau street be annulled on the ground that he was of unsound mind when the marriage took place, Aug. 22, 1905.

Lindhorst was declared mentally incompetent by the Clayton Circuit Court Oct. 31, 1904, and under the law was not qualified to enter into a marriage contract. He lived with his wife only one day.

BEARS CONTROL THE WHEAT PIT

Selling by Commission Houses Lowers Prices Sharply for the Day.

OTHER GRAINS EASY

Weakness in Wheat Is Reflected in Both Corn and Oats.

Wheat closed lower today on general selling by commission houses and traders, the decline reaching over ½c a bu in the active options. The pressure of offerings was more liberal than in many weeks past, and the closing was weak and at the low point.

News generally was unimportant, but favored the sellers at all times, and the support in the market was insignificant.

The weather in the Argentine was probably the controlling factor in the situation, favorable condition for the movement of the new crop being general.

Foreign markets were also bearishly inclined and Liverpool wheat closed ¼d lower than yesterday. Corn, however, closed ¼d higher. Other foreign markets were irregular, Antwerp ⅝c lower and Budapest and Berlin ⅛c to ¼c lower.

Receipts in the Northwest were liberal, Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reporting 407 cars, against 500 cars one year ago. Winnipeg had 105 cars, against 91 cars last year.

The Argentine shipments for the week were light, the figures showing:

Wheat—This week, 640,000 bu; last week, 752,000 bu; last year, 1,176,000 bu; two years ago, 1,672,000; shipments since Jan. 1, 1,904,000 bu; same period year ago, 1,968,050 bu.

Corn—This week, 496,600 bu; last week, 301,000 bu; last year, 950,000 bu; two years ago, 1,234,000 bu; shipments since Jan. 1, 1,447,000 bu; same period year ago, 4,422,000 bu.

The Modern Miller reports that the returns from 100 correspondents were received in reply to an inquiry whether winter wheat had been damaged by freezing and thawing weather, and, if so, to what extent. Comparatively few statements of damage were reported from any cause, and, as a rule, the damage was said to be slight. It was stated that farmers did not consider that damage by freezing and thawing was probable before February or March. Kentucky and Tennessee reported poor stands and fly in the wheat. The most general complaint was from Texas, which was that excessive rains had lowered the condition of the crop. Taken as a whole, the reports from the winter wheat belt indicate a satisfactory condition of the crop.

Corn was weak on the decline in wheat and a slack export and domestic demand. Oats were quiet. The export and domestic demand in this grain continues good.

Primary movement—Receipts wheat, 607,951 bu, against 709,840 bu last year. Corn—461,320 bu, against 489,780 bu last year. Oats—537,336 bu, against 325,786 bu last year. Shipments—Wheat, 183,156 bu, against 282,000 bu last year. Corn—479,513 bu, against 193,000 bu last year. Oats—469,158 bu, against 440,000 bu last year.

St. Louis receipts and shipments: Wheat—receipts, 5130 bu; shipments, 42,750 bu; corn—receipts, 12 sacks, 62,000 bu local and 36,000 bu through; shipments, 2200 sacks and 45,140 bu; oats—receipts, 89,100 bu local and 6750 bu through; shipments, 900 sacks and 40,270 bu.

FLOUR—Receipts, 5260 bbls; shipments, 8870 bbls. Quote new soft winter flour, patents, $4.30@4.50; straights, $4.15@4.25; extra fancy, $3.90@4; foregoing in wood. HAY—Receipts, 800 tons local and 110 tons through; shipments, 305 tons. Quote hay, timothy, choice, $14@14.50; No. 1 timothy, $12.50@13.50; No. 2, $8@10. Transfer Problem Still Unsettled Among Railroads.

Freight traffic representatives of East Side railroads having no freight depots in St. Louis had a meeting Friday at the Wainwright Building and discussed methods to be pursued in delivery of freight to St. Louis business houses from the East.

Several of the East Side lines, notably the Wabash, Burlington and Vandalia, are ready to deliver freight at their own depots in St. Louis, but the others have been unable up to this time to secure depot facilities on the West Side.

The question of the recognition of a single agency for team transfer was also discussed. The representatives have not been able to agree on this, some contending that more than one transfer company should be recognized in the tariffs.

The sales of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis each day are greater than the number of St. Louis homes.

JOHN F. M'ENNIS IS LAID TO REST

A LIFE OF OPTIMISM

Had Earned a Merited Promotion Just Before His Death.

The funeral of John Francis McEnnis, dean of city employes, who died Wednesday at his home, 3644 Botanical avenue, was held Friday morning from the family home to Calvary Cemetery.

At the inquest held Thursday over the body a Coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accident, death having resulted from a fall from a street car.

Mr. McEnnis was a very remarkable character. Born in Maryland in 1830, he had lived in St. Louis for three generations. He was always fond of literature, but always, too, an indefatigable worker in the practical walks of life. He mastered French, German and English, and acquired a colloquial use of Spanish. Possessed of a memory which was a marvel of accuracy, he was recognized among his friends as a literary and historical oracle, even in the later day events, which usually fail to impress deeply the weary brain.

A "rale old Irish gentleman," he illustrated to his death the beauty of the doctrine of optimism, and its potency in dominating adversity. He was a fine penman, an expert accountant, and his mental alertness was undiminished with age. His physical constitution yielded grudgingly to time, and compelled him to accept clerical work and to the Clerk's office of the Police Court, to the Police Station, and finally to the Street Commissioner's office, he carried the doctrine of good cheer and contentment, finding glad welcome everywhere.

His Recent Promotion.

His son, John T. McEnnis, made a most brilliant record as a newspaper man during the 80's and 90's, dying a few years ago in his father's house. Father and son were always comrades or chums, and their discussions and controversies were the delight of their intimate friends.

There was a pretty little touch of pathos in the story of the final week of the youthful old man's life. Last Saturday, by reason of his efficiency, which was demonstrated despite his 76 years, he was accorded a promotion by the fair and vigilant Street Commissioner Valliant, which change involved better pay and shorter hours. He was gleeful as a child over his achievement. Monday evening he went to his desk in fine spirits, and remarked, when quitting about midnight, how short the day's task had been. Tuesday night he showed the same enjoyment, and started for home in excellent spirits. The conductor of the car on which he rode—an owl car—states that when the car neared Shenandoah, Mr. McEnnis moved out to the back platform, and that, as the movement slowed down he was so impatient to reach home that he stepped off without appreciating the speed. He fell, and was terribly bruised along his spinal column and later it was found that his skull was fractured. He lost consciousness, and died without recovering it. The last moment that he knew, therefore, was one of delight—a fitting finale to such a life. The conductor states that no one but the car crew was on the car at the time of the accident.

Mr. McEnnis leaves a widow. His brother, Michael McEnnis, one of the oldest merchants in St. Louis, was a pioneer in the pork-packing business, and is an ex-president of the Merchants' Exchange.

TRADE HERE NOT INJURED

Chicago Firm Owning Local Elevator Suspends.

The suspension of McReynolds & Co., the Chicago grain and commission firm whose president, George S. McReynolds, is president of the Southern Elevator Co., owning the largest grain elevator in St. Louis, will not, it is believed, affect trade here unfavorably.

General Manager A. H. Babcock said in Chicago Friday that trouble had been coming upon the company for some time, due to small receipts and high expenditures. The assets, he said, would be more than adequate to meet all liabilities, and Pringle, Fitch & Co. of Chicago had been designated to take over all deals pending. The affairs of the company, Babcock said, will be wound up, and it will go out of business.

R. J. Pendleton, St. Louis manager of the company, refused to make a statement. Merchants' Exchange brokers said an understanding had been reached that all outstanding trades of the company would be closed Friday.

The Southern elevator in St. Louis is at the foot of Carroll street, and has a capacity of 1,000,000 bushels, the same as each of the two Chicago elevators belonging to the company.

TROLLEY MAIL MENACED.

United Railways Co. Demands More for Service.

Postmaster Wyman is on his way to Washington to confer with Postmaster-General Cortelyou in an effort to assure the continuance of the present method of delivery of mail by street car companies. The United Railways Co., at the expiration of its contract, Dec. 31, announced that it would refuse to continue deliveries unless the Government paid 25 cents a mile, instead of 13 cents, now being paid. The situation is said to be complicated by the fact that the appropriation for street car service will not permit of more than 17 cents a mile being paid.

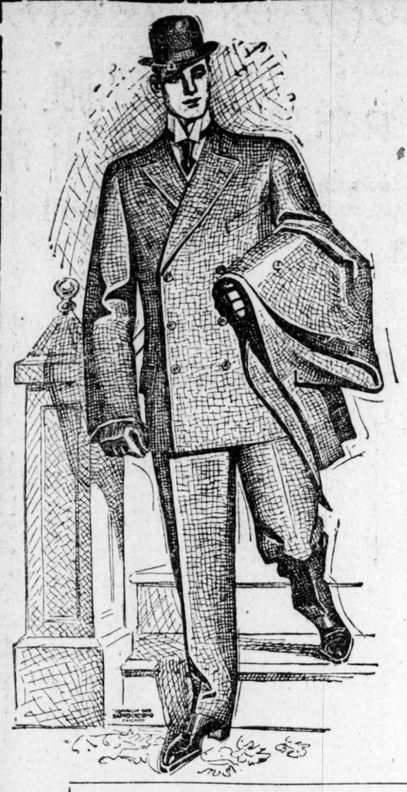

While in Washington, Mr. Wyman will also take up with Mr. Cortelyou the question of extending the new Frisco fast mail service from Monett, Mo., to Oklahoma. Many communications from business organizations in Oklahoma have been received by the Business Men's League, asking for a direct connection with the fast mail to Oklahoma City.

Facing Starvation

Perhaps you find yourself in a position where you have given up all hope of ever enjoying a hearty meal without having to pay a penalty.

But don't give up hope.

"I want everyone to know how Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets helped me. I suffered with stomach trouble for two years, and was in a terrible condition. I had lost thirty pounds in weight and looked twenty years older than I am. I was half starved, for nothing that I ate seemed to give me strength. A friend told me of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, and after taking three boxes, I believe I am cured. I can eat anything without the least discomfort; my complexion has become clear and I am rapidly gaining flesh.—Mrs. M. J. SEVANSON, Minneapolis, Minn."

If you are loosing flesh and becoming weak and irritable, if your food distresses you, or if you are unable to sleep, get a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. The cost is trifling, twenty-five cents a box, and even that amount we will refund if you are not satisfied.

A REASON

Dyspepsia is due to a disordered state of the stomach. "Bile" collects in large quantities and the stomach while in this condition cannot perform its natural function. The body cannot extract nutriment from the undigested food and consequently no new blood is formed. Extreme weakness, emaciation and chronic suffering is the inevitable result.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets disperse the surplus "bile," soothe the disordered nerves and gradually restore the stomach to its normal health and strength.

Our name and reputation in this community is back of the statements made in this advertisement. We could not risk putting it here did we not know the formula of Rexall Dyspepsia Cure and the other 199 Rexall Remedies.
